BY GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese officials said today their forces were crushing the biggest Communist offensive of the war with skyrocketing losses to the enemy. But Red troops were reported in control of much of Hue, the ancient imperial capital, and South Vietnamese dive-bombers still roared over the streets of Saigon attacking Viet Cong holdouts.

Associated Press correspondent John Lengel reported from Hue, 50 miles south of the demilitarized zone, that four battalions of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese controlled most of the streets in the coastal city. Lengel said U.S. Marines and infantrymen and South Vietnamese troops were battling more to maintain their positions than to oust the enemy.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker went on television to assert that the Communists were being defeated with unparalleled losses.

10,553 Killed

The U.S. Command said 10,553 of the enemy had been killed in the four-day countryside assaults on the cities and towns of South Vietnam. Allied losses were put at 917 dead and 2,817 wounded, including 281 Americans killed and 1,195 wounded.

Thieu said, "The back of the Viet Cong attack has been broken." He said there is still Communist resistance "in a few provincial capitals... but we can consider they have been totally defeated."

Although the enemy raided numerous cities and towns throughout the republic and achieved some temporary successes, they have failed to take and hold any major installations or localities," said a U.S. communiqué. "Although some enemy units are still occupying positions in a few cities, they are rapidly being driven out. The allies have detained 3,076 suspects and captured over 1,800 individual and over 300 crew-served weapons."

Military officials doubt imminent call-up of ground reserves as U.S. prepares second bid to recover the intelligence ship seized by North Korea. Story on Page 20.

But as Thieu and Bunker broadcast, South Vietnamese bombers were strafing a block of houses near the race track in the southwestern end of Saigon to clear out Communist troops. Rockets streaked from armed helicopters into other Viet Cong entrenchments in a crowded suburban area in a northwestern suburb of the capital.

There was fighting in at least half a dozen other spots in Saigon.

Marauding bands of guerrillas roved the capital's streets, sniping at helicopters approaching the top of the six-story U.S. Embassy building. South Vietnamese rangers caught one group of Viet Cong eating soup at a sidewalk restaurant.

The heaviest fighting was reported in the southwestern section of the city around the Buddhist An Quang Pagoda.

Lengel reported the Communists in Hue were attacking with machine guns, mortars and rockets. He said the enemy fire was so intense that two U.S. helicopters were shot down as they tried to run the gauntlet to collect wounded.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese held a major part of the old walled citadel, once seat of the Vietnamese emperors but now a pile of ruins, and the headquarters of the South Vietnamese army's 1st Infantry Division.

South Vietnamese troops held a small part of the citadel, while the Americans were fighting from a half-block-square compound housing the U.S. advisory headquarters.

Lengel said refugees had poured into the city, swelling the normal 40,000 population enormously, and civilian casualties from the fighting were believed high. He reported a senior American civilian adviser to the pacification program may have been captured and the fate of nine other American civilians was not known.

"No one really controls Hue," Lengel said. "There are islands of government resistance and islands of Viet Cong strength."

Reports of civilian casualties were lagging far behind the military figures, Thieu in a preliminary report said 136 civilians had been killed and 1,841 wounded, including 90 killed and 1,082 wounded in Saigon. But reports from other cities and towns indicated the figure would increase greatly as more information came in.

The total of enemy dead reported by the allies was more than three times the previous record for enemy dead in one week of the war. But the American death toll was well below the weekly record of 337 last May, during a period of heavy shelling of Marine posts below the DMZ.

Fighting Near Hospital

Fighting in Saigon raged around the capital's biggest hospital, Cho Ray, the race track in the southwestern section and the South Vietnamese armored headquarters in the northwest. A government police station was reported overrun.

Saigon's Coffin Makers Do Brisk Business

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — The only shops open in Saigon today were the coffin makers. Business was brisk.

Watchful Vietnamese soldiers stood guard as the artisans worked busily to meet the demand resulting from the devastating battles that have swept across the suburbs of South Vietnam's capital this week.

All Others Closed

All other shops and businesses in the city of three million people have been ordered closed during the crisis. The population was told to stay indoors under a 24-hour curfew.

Vietnamese police and soldiers fired into the air to break up knots of curious bystanders that gathered on some streets. Roads leading to many government and U.S. buildings in the heart of the city were blocked off.

Cars and trucks pulled up at the half dozen coffin shops. Tearful relatives loaded the brown varnished boxes, decorated with highly colored religious symbols.

No official count has been given of the number of civilians killed in the fighting. The three main public hospitals reported more than 100 dead in their morgues. Scores more were known to be inside the blocks of squatters' shacks and refugee houses devastated by mortar and helicopter fire on the northwestern and southwestern outskirts of the city.

Hundreds of dead Viet Cong lay in the city's alleys. There were no coffins for them, only communal graves outside the city.

Hundreds of civilians have been wounded in the fighting. The medical director of the Seventh Day Adventist Hospital on one edge of Saigon, Dr. Jess C. Holm, said: "We have 40 beds for 75 patients. We haven't turned anyone away. We'll put them in the chapel at the back of the hospital if we have to."

Most of the wounded civilians were being taken to the two public hospitals still open. At noon today fighting raged around the largest public hospital, Cho Ray, in Cholon, the Chinese quarter, and patients could not be moved inside. Military and civilian ambulances began to move into some of the devastated slum areas to seek out civilians wounded as long as two days ago.

Still Sniper Fire

One convoy of five ambulances sped through the center of the city, packed with wounded.

Sniper fire could still be heard in the center of Saigon, and police and soldiers were nervous. Refugees poured in from the western suburbs.

Destroyer, Soviet Ship In Collision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported today a "minor collision" between an American destroyer and a Russian merchant ship in the Sea of Japan Wednesday. No casualties were reported.

The department said the accident occurred in a crossing situation. It claimed the destroyer had the right of way under international maritime rules.

The department issued this statement: "Soviet merchant ship Kapitän Vislobokov and the destroyer U.S.S. Rowan (D-782) had a minor collision in the Sea of Japan approximately 95 miles east of Pohang, South Korea, at 1:53 p.m. EST on Wednesday, Jan. 31.

No Casualties

"There were no personnel casualties aboard the destroyer Rowan and no casualties were reported by the merchant ship. The Rowan sustained 'minor damage,' a three-foot hole above the water line on the port bow. When queried by flashing lights, the Vislobokov signaled 'no assistance required' and 'damage to my stern two meters in length.'"

"The collision took place at 36 degrees 06 minutes north and 130 degrees 28 minutes east. The accident occurred in a crossing situation, with the Rowan having the right of way under international regulations, being on an easterly course while the Vislobokov was on a southerly heading.

Carries 250 Men

"The Rowan is a Gearing class destroyer with a displacement of 3500 tons and a length of 350 feet. It is commanded by Commander Loren I. Moore of Wheat Ridge, Colo., and carried a crew of approximately 250 men. The Soviet merchant ship Vislobokov has a displacement of about 10,000 tons and is 511 feet long.

"The incident is being investigated by the Navy."

Halfway House Is Vetoed

The State Department of Mental Hygiene has decided not to buy the Albany Avenue home of the late Dr. Charles O'Reilly for use as a halfway house for mentally retarded young persons.

Word of its decision was sent acting mayor T. Robert Gallo this morning.

In its letter to the city, the department stated it was not going to purchase the property at 170 Albany Avenue because plans for the school or halfway house have changed insofar as immediate need is concerned.

The mental hygiene department explained that it is proceeding to reopen another property in this area of the state that will fulfill its needs temporarily. It is said too, that it would keep Kingston informed of any future plans.

Gallo said the letter did not explain why the department changed its mind. Establishment of a halfway house in the city was revealed by the Kingston Freeman in an exclusive story which told of some local opposition to the plan in early January. At that time, William C. Faile, senior real estate property appraiser for the State Mental Hygiene Department explained that residents of the halfway house would work in the community either at Gateway Industries or as domestics.

The Clouds Indicate An Early Spring

It was a combination play by Freeman photographers Bob Haines and John Kruh (with camera) to grab this photo of the almost-clusive groundhog. Of course, the legend says if the groundhog sees his shadow today, there'll be six more weeks of winter weather. With the low-hanging clouds in this area, it was doubtful that would be the case, but don't bet on it.

Marijuana... Not Much

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nearly a fourth of the 3,300 students at Ithaca College have used marijuana at one time or another, but only eight per cent currently are involved in the regular use of illegal drugs, according to a survey released today.

Ithaca is one of four colleges where investigations are planned by the Joint Legislative Committee on Crime, headed by State Sen. John H. Hughes of Syracuse.

Dr. J. David Hammond, administrative director of the college's health center, and Prof. Martin Rand, called their survey "the most extensive of its kind, and possibly the first, yet conducted on an American college campus."

They concluded that "there is much more smoke than there is fire, at least on the Ithaca College campus."

They said more than 2,000 students answered the four-page questionnaire during last month's registration period. Hammond and Rand said the results of the survey were "gratifying...revealing a much lower drug-usage than estimated."

The report said marijuana was the principal drug used by students.

It said approximately 22 per cent of the Ithaca student body had tried marijuana, either during high school or after entering college. Of these, 15 per cent had used marijuana on more than two occasions. "This limited usage, one or two times, indicates that such students wished to satisfy their curiosity," Hammond said.

"They apparently find their contact with it unsatisfying and may well have no further association with marijuana."

Of the 22 per cent, nearly a quarter tried the drug for the first time in high school, and one of every seven tried it in junior high school, the report said.

Three-Alarm Highland Fire Under Probe

By WALTER S. CLARK

A three-alarm blaze battled by 150 volunteer firefighters under command of Fire Chief Fred Visconti, this morning destroyed a four-story frame building opposite the firehouse and threatened the business district of Main Street, Highland.

Three Slightly Hurt

Three firemen were slightly injured and several were affected by smoke.

Chief Visconti said the cause of the fire is under investigation by his department and he will call in representatives of the Board of Fire Underwriters to probe the cause.

The fire was discovered shortly before 3:50 a. m. by an employee in a nearby bakery who sounded the first alarm. Highland Fire units responded with four pumpers and on arrival firemen discovered flames shooting through the roof and the building completely engulfed in flames.

Poughkeepsie Unit Called

Chief Visconti immediately called Poughkeepsie for assistance and a 100-foot aerial truck responded. The chief then added the second and third alarms summoning Marlboro and Milton Fire units. New Paltz and Clintondale Fire Companies were put on standby alert and Modena sent an ambulance to the scene.

Chief Visconti told how firemen battled the flames that raged out of control for two hours and during the height of the fire, the roof collapsed.

The building, where the fire occurred was occupied by the 3 Guys Pizzeria and a laundromat on the first floor and apartments on the upper floors. No one was at home at the time of the fire although the apartments were occupied. A Highland fireman, who was the first to arrive at the scene, raced through the building next door and aroused six families who quickly evacuated their apartments.

Lauds Work of Vols

Visconti praised the work of the volunteer firemen and said, "All the men did a wonderful job and they made a good stop."

Flames from the burning structure leaped across alleyways and licked the outer walls of buildings on either side, one of which was occupied by Sugar Bowl Restaurant, the other, a dress shop.

No Loss Figures

Firemen contained the main fire damage to the four-story building which is owned by Frank Rinaudo. No monetary estimate of loss was given by fire officials. Firemen were still at the scene at 10 a. m. wetting down the smoldering debris.

Highland police set up fire lines closing off the entire block of Main Street and traffic was rerouted.

A sign in front of the building read "For Sale, a Real Good Buy." A spectator, looking at the sign was heard to remark, "It's a real goodbye for that building."

Gambler Probe Indicated

A crackdown on gambling in the Kingston area appears to be more than a remote possibility as indicated by the nature of witnesses seen entering the January grand jury this past month.

The grand jury was expected to hand down its indictments and possible recommendations shortly after noon today.

A stream of witnesses, well-known in the gambling fraternity, has been testifying before the grand jury giving rise to the speculation that several sealed indictments will be handed down.

There have been reports of "big money" and "skin" being conducted in the back room of a well-known city establishment and it is highly likely that some form of law enforcement action, backed by grand jury indictments, may be imminent.

A Bombshell At Meeting In Saugerties

By LYNN MULVANEY

A record-breaking 175 Saugerties residents who turned up at last night's town board meeting heard newly elected Democrat Supervisor Michael Schovel ask for the creation of a new town post of deputy supervisor. The job, he said, would be appointive.

Seemingly, the proposal came as somewhat of a surprise to the all-Republican board.

"This comes as a bombshell," said Bernard M. Rinaldi. "I don't want to make a decision now."

Has Man in Mind

Schovel said he "could use some help" and explained that he had a man in mind who could help him and the town—moneywise.

"We are handling a lot of money," he added, "we can make money with money—invent it properly."

When asked after the meeting who he had in mind for the deputy post, Schovel declined to name the man he would appoint but in many circles it is thought to be Robert Gardner, unsuccessful Democrat candidate for councilman in the last election.

A motion to table the matter until the next meeting was made by George Turner, who told Schovel: "You ran for the post of full-time supervisor; I do not see the justification of your proposal."

Only Schovel Objects

Councilman Robert B. Smith, when asked by Schovel for an opinion, answered a simple and quiet "no" but murmured, "It might be alright."

Turner's motion to table was seconded by Francis Hallion. All voted aye, except Schovel. Unanimous approval was given the appointment of Robert Schirmer as Justice Court Clerk and reappointment of Donald Sullivan and John Pavlak as town constables.

Asks About Code

Turner moved that the Planning Board look into the possibility of establishing a building code for the town and asked that the board report its findings to the town as soon as practicable. Dr. Richard Messina, planning board chairman, concurred and stressed the need for a comprehensive plan which he said is "well underway."

Supervisor Schovel assigned various areas of town responsibility to members of the board as follows: Rinaldi, parks and recreation; Turner, water and sanitation; Smith, buildings; Hellion, town police. He asked residents to address inquiries in these areas to the men assigned to them.

The board agreed further to rescind the use of Roberts Rules of Order and adopt in its place the rules of the Assembly of the State of New York in order that the supervisor may vote in case of a tie.

A Wide Variety

The meeting, which began after 9:30, was preceded by an open forum lasting about an hour and a half.

Questions raised ran the gamut from streets, sewers and speed limits to dog packs, poor television reception, recreation and reassessments.

A large delegation of Mt. Marion residents were present as were residents from all other areas of the town.

Schovel advised that he would notify taxpayers of a special meeting to be held on the subject of dogs and residents went on record as being dissatisfied with cablevision service in certain areas. "We are paying for a service which we are not getting," volunteered one Mt. Marion man.

Reports were heard from all town department heads present.

Wilson Outlines Narcotics Fight

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson said today that "depth studies" are now being conducted to determine the extent of drug using by New York State high school and college students.

"One of the most pressing problems facing society today is the heinous waste of human resources which is being caused by narcotic addiction," the Woodstock Republican said, and he added that a Republican sponsored bill had been introduced in the State Assembly this week "which would set up local narcotics advisory councils to work directly and confidentially with young narcotics users and suspected users at the community level."

Wilson claimed that "from 50 to 75 per cent of our crimes are committed by addicts who must become criminals to support their habits."

"Once regarded as a problem which centered only in the big city, the narcotics blight has now spread to the quiet suburban street, the country road, the college campus, and, worst of all, the high school," he said.

The assemblyman declared that "under legislation passed last year, more than 2,000 addicts have been brought under the supervision and treatment of the Narcotic Addiction Control program." Adding, however, that "our youngsters are still experimenting with drugs."

Assemblyman Wilson concluded his remarks by saying, "I believe that with a new awareness the problem of narcotics remains very grave, but we can make important progress in fighting it. And we intend to do just that as soon as possible."

Charged With Burglary at Chic's

Kingston Detective Joseph Feraca arrested a 22-year-old city man at 1 o'clock this morning in connection with the Thursday burglary of Chic's Rendezvous restaurant at 765 Broadway.

Edward James Dickey, of 34 Hunter Street, was brought before City Judge Hubert Richter at 9 a. m. today and charged with burglary in the third degree.

Judge Richter postponed the case until Feb. 6. No bail was set for Dickey who was remanded to the Ulster County Jail to await court action.

Dickey is charged with entering the restaurant at 5:30 a. m., Thursday, and allegedly taking money from a juke box and a cigarette machine.

A safe was also broken into, according to Kingston detectives, but nothing was taken.

Detective Floyd Krom made the preliminary investigation, and The Freeman was informed that the investigation is continuing.

In other city court action today, Tarquin Woods, 18, of Legion Court, Port Ewen, charged with forgery, third degree on two counts, and grand larceny, third degree, was remanded to the Ulster County Jail without bail to await jury action on Feb. 9.

The court assigned William Baron, new partner in the law firm of Saccoman, Mullany and Baron, as a defense counsel for Woods.

Kingston Board Meeting

Hear Bus Problems

Problems that have caused some confusion relating to busing of children and proposed transfers of pupils from the Hurley and Lake Katrine Schools to relieve overcrowded conditions resulting from population growth, were aired Thursday night before the Kingston Board of Education.

Approximately 50 parents appeared at the meeting held in the George Washington School cafeteria and several participated in lengthy discussion during which many of the apparent misunderstandings were resolved.

Emphasis was placed on the safety of children, the enforcement of laws regulating bus drivers and supervision by school authorities in loading and unloading pupils on school grounds.

Governed by Laws
Board members explained that public service laws govern the regulations set down for bus operators and drivers and also have the responsibility of enforcement of the laws, and bus contractors have responsibilities regarding the conduct and operation of buses by drivers, who the board emphasized are employees of the contractors and not the school district.

Mrs. Bernadine Collier of Woodstock, mother of two children, appeared as spokesman for the parents and led the discussion for them after she read a four-page presentation containing eight questions pertinent to busing and safety of children. She said presently, confusion is experienced by students, parents, drivers and others as to the role in the operation of a safe, efficient school busing system.

Mrs. Collier contended that communication between school officials and parents should be improved to keep parents informed as to any changes in assigning children to buses. She questioned whether any training is given before drivers are allowed to operate school buses, and who is responsible for checking qualifications of drivers. She also asked what regulations are enforced regarding rules and instructions expected to be followed by the drivers. She also noted that a state education provision calls for emergency drills on school buses to acquaint the children in transit with safety measures.

Questions from parents were answered by Board members and Supt. of Schools W. Wendell Hoover. In part they noted that bus drivers are employees of contractors who have full control of the drivers and operation of buses. Parents were told that all drivers are examined by the school physician who certifies their physical fitness.

During the discussion seminars for potential bus drivers were proposed. Dr. Hoover referred to reports from school principals to assure parents that emergency drills are conducted three times a year to instruct children in safety measures while on buses and when boarding or leaving the buses. It was emphasized that state law requires bus drivers to instruct children how to cross highways after leaving a bus.

Study Problems
Board members pointed out that bus problems are constantly studied by school officials and rectified as soon as possible. They called upon parents for their cooperation and asked them to be more specific when making complaints regarding busing matters.

Arthur Withall, board president, assured the parents that

Child Health Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the Town Clerk's Office, Rosendale, Thursday, Feb. 8, from 1-3 p. m. These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

all suggestions offered last night will be thoroughly studied and action taken where necessary.

A delegation of parents inquired about the proposed transfer of some pupils from Hurley and Lake Katrine Schools to the Edson School on the elementary level. Some voiced protests.

The steady population growth in those two areas has resulted in a serious problem of overcrowding in the present schools and transfer of pupils must be made, on a temporary basis, officials said.

A request from Ulster Academy for a three-year lease to use former School 2—now temporary quarters of Ulster Community College was turned down with regret. Board members explained the building must be used to provide classrooms for pupils in the district and noted a crowded condition presently exists at Sophie Finn School on Mary's Avenue.

The Wawarsing Town Board met in Ellenville last night with about 40 area residents attending and most of the issues put before the board were referred to committee and study sessions.

The Committee of Parents for the Safety of Our Children, organized for the purpose of opposing the proposed and board-approved private airfield to be built near the Ellenville Central School, appealed to the board for action on the airfield now slated for construction.

Republican Supervisor Frank W. Harkin referred the matter to a five-man committee.

Kerhonkson firemen attended the meeting to find out whether the Kerhonkson water district had been approved by the board.

The firefighters were informed that construction of the project had been completed but that because some people were still using water from the old main, the project had not been officially approved.

Studies were approved for more funds for the Ellenville First Aid and Rescue Squad and a land request by a private agency for the building of a recreation facility.

Also to be put under study is Spring Glen flood control. The land under consideration for the flood control project contains buildings which, under federal and state funding stipulations, may have to be torn down, and there is opposition to the demolition.

A preliminary plan for building development in the Kerhonkson area will be turned over to the area planning board.

In an open bidding process, Giovanniello's Ice and Fuel Oil Co. Inc. of Ellenville was awarded the contract of providing fuel oil for the town building at .125 per gallon. Bituminous winter mix for highway repairs was awarded to Shawee Asphalt of Ellenville at $8.30 per ton.

Retiring on March 1, Fireman for 30 Years

The retirement resignation of Fireman First Grade Richard Weeks effective March 1 was accepted and approved with regret during a recent meeting of the board of fire commissioners.

Weeks was appointed to the tral Fire Station as driver of Car 1.

The board members and Fire Chief James M. Brett commended Weeks for his long tenure of devoted and dedicated service and for his skilled and efficient manner in which he performed his duties.

Weeks, who resides with his wife, Anna at 145 East Chester Street, was honored in 1962 on the occasion of his 25th year of service with the fire department.

Upwards of 70 persons attended the 1962 testimonial dinner sponsored by the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters Benevolent Association at which time Weeks and two others were commended for their duty. The two others were Joseph J. Disch and Fred A. Williams, retirees of the fire department.

Orientation Is Held for Legislators
County legislators learned about the operations of the various county departments in an orientation session and tour of the county building Thursday night.

Most of the 33 legislators attended. Newly elected legislators viewed county departments and met department heads for the first time, while members who are on the board of supervisors and are now on the County Legislature, renewed acquaintanceships.

County Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-New Paltz-Gardiner, was pleased with the project initiated by him and said he planned another orientation session in the near future.

Ulster Proposes Change

Another proposed change in the Kingston arterial plans near the Caldor-Waldbaum shopping complex was advanced last night by members of the Ulster Businessmen's Association.

Appearing before the town board they asked for the connecting of the opposite ends of Neighborhood Road, each of which is dead-end.

Speaking at length, favoring the proposal were Louis DiDonna, Lloyd LeFever and Michael Altomari. They asked that the proposed change be added to those already made recently by the State Department of Transportation.

Another group—all Flatbush Road residents—asked that the board do something about the "extra heavy blasting" that is being done by Dunham Construction Company for Hudson Cement Company along Rt. 32.

The blasting, they contend is damaging homes and poses a danger to existing gas lines in the area which is about a half mile from the by-pass.

In other business, the Ulster Board said some of its members would meet next week with Whittier residents to discuss problems in connection with dogs running loose. The possibility of establishing a leash law will be considered.

The board agreed to place a civic and criminal jurors four stop sign on Pine Place at the entrance to Van Keuren High-purchase of a new voting way, voted to pay both town machine.

Joe, Blumenthal In Viet Debate

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will be matched in a debate on the Vietnam War issue against a man who just recently tagged him, the "bleating hawk"—Assemblyman Albert H. Blumenthal of Manhattan's 73rd District.

The event is scheduled for noon Friday, April 26 at the Summit Hotel in New York.

The debate has been announced by Bernard Ruggiero, president of the Democratic Forum News, sponsor of the luncheon.

Rep. Resnick, one of two announced Democrat candidates to seek the senatorial seat of Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, is an outspoken champion of liberal causes and a staunch defender of the administration's policies in Vietnam.

Assemblyman Blumenthal, a west side Democrat, whom Resnick has referred to as one of the "surrender" people, is

"Once regarded as a problem which centered only in the big city, the narcotics blight has now spread to the quiet suburban street, the country road, the college campus, and, worst of all, the high school," he said.

The assemblyman declared that "under legislation passed last year, more than 2,000 addicts have been brought under the supervision and treatment of the Narcotic Addiction Control program," adding, however, that "our youngsters are still experimenting with drugs."

Assemblyman Wilson concluded his remarks by saying, "I believe that with a new awareness the problem of narcotics remains very grave, but we can make important progress in fighting it. And we intend to do just that as soon as possible."

Charged With Burglary at Chic's

Kingston Detective Joseph Peraca arrested a 22-year-old city man at 1 o'clock this morning in connection with the Thursday burglary of Chic's Rendezvous restaurant at 763 Broadway.

Edward James Dickey, of 34 Hunter Street, was brought before City Judge Hubert Richter at 9 a. m. today and charged with burglary in the third degree.

Judge Richter postponed the case until Feb. 6. No bail was set for Dickey who was remanded to the Ulster County jail to await court action.

Dickey is charged with entering the restaurant at 5:30 a. m., Thursday, and allegedly taking money from a juke box and a cigarette machine.

A safe was also broken into, according to Kingston detectives, but nothing was taken.

Detective Floyd Krom made the preliminary investigation, and The Freeman was informed that the investigation is continuing.

In other city court action today, Tarquin Woods, 18, of Legion Court, Port Ewen, charged with forgery, third degree on two counts, and grand larceny, third degree, was remanded to the Ulster County jail without bail to await jury action on Feb. 9.

The court assigned William Baron, new partner in the law firm of Saccoman, Mullany and Baron, as a defense counsel for Woods.

American History Month

The month of February brings to mind the memories of two great American patriots—Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. In commemoration of these two great Americans, the Daughters of the American Revolution are sponsoring February as American History Month.

Mayor Garraghan in his proclamation declared that through the study of American History we can best honor our debt to the wisdom, faith and sacrifices of those who came before us.

Programs in our schools and commemorative activities by local organizations will help all to know the story of these two patriots. But there is much more to the history of our nation, its achievements, its progress and its developments than can be found in the biographies of these two great men and other American leaders. Perhaps, the basic reason for this is that, unlike the leaders of the Old World, they did not love power for power's sake but held the law to be above the individual no matter how powerful a person that individual might be.

Washington became the first citizen of America years before there was a constitutional law. He rejected more than one chance to become the dictatorial ruler of his nation, and was one of the first Americans to seek the rule of law through a written constitution that should be binding on every state and every citizen. When the Constitutional Convention was called to build a fortress against the prevailing doubt, confusion and disintegration, he presided over that historic assembly. When the new government came into being, he was elected its first President, but refused to serve more than eight years.

Lincoln came to the White House in a different era. The question was not then founding a nation but preserving the nation which our forefathers under Washington had previously founded. His primary aim as President was to preserve the Constitution and by that action to save the unity of the nation. To him, as to Washington, no individual could be as great as the law.

These two great Americans in their respect for Constitutional law were in accord with the will of the American people. With us respect for Constitutional law always has been greater than our love for any national hero. So long as we continue in that frame of mind, America will remain a free nation, worthy of its founder and its other great patriots.

Everyone should make a real effort to safeguard the heritage of freedom so dearly won in the past and so dearly being paid for today.

'Run for Your Life'

Political correspondents reporting the kickoff by Michigan Gov. George Romney of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in the Wisconsin primary thought it was apt that he joined a "Run for Your Life Club" one-mile before dawn jog. For it will be crucial for him to win this second primary of the campaign, especially if he loses the first in New Hampshire March 12.

How apt it was is reflected in the latest Gallup poll on the presidential race. It shows Nixon holding his lead from November through January among Republican voters with eight Republicans mentioned for the nomination. For three months he maintained a score of 42 points against the field. Rockefeller improved his position from 15 points to 27, but he took every one of the 12 points he gained from others besides Nixon—2 from Romney; 5 from Reagan; 1 from Hatfield, 2 from Lindsay and 2 from those who had been undecided. General Gavin showed for the first time with 1 point.

Even among independents, where Rockefeller strength might be high, the Governor only drew up even with Nixon at 27 points each. Again Rockefeller's gain of 6 points in this field was taken largely from the others—2 from Reagan and one each from Nixon, Romney, Lindsay and Hatfield. It is interesting to note that Illinois' Percy remained unchanged at five points among Republicans and seven points among independent voters.

What this means is that the hard core Republicans are sticking with Nixon, while Rockefeller is drawing from those who were scattered elsewhere, and that independents rate Nixon and Rockefeller equally. That figures because independents include moderates and liberals and would divide accordingly. It also means that the moderate and conservative wing and the liberal wing are about evenly matched at this point, and the result of the primaries, if they are decisive enough, can well determine the nominee.

The Florida Supreme Court voted 5 to 2 to strike down the law barring interracial marriage, in line with a U.S. Supreme Court decision holding a law banning interracial marriage invalid in Virginia. The state decision confirms a new trend that will apply nationwide.

Fair Trial Questions Over Spock, Coffin TV

WASHINGTON — Something significant happened on television last Sunday which could affect juries in the future. But it wasn't even noticed—at least it has not brought any comment from some of those groups of the bar and press which have been raising a fuss about pre-trial publicity.

Dr. Benjamin Spock and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., who were recently indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to encourage other persons to violate the draft law, argued their own case over NBC's nationwide program known as "Meet the Press."

Dr. Spock was asked: "Why did you openly violate a federal law?"

The answer was that he did so because the Vietnam war is escalating and he believes this is a wrong policy. He added: "I would emphasize first that I think I am innocent and I think the young men who are resisting the draft are innocent and patriotic and courageous. But if the courts decide otherwise, then I am willing to go to jail, but I believe I am innocent."

Dr. Coffin said: "It has always been the American tradition not to surrender your conscience to the state. And if you have a choice of violating your conscience or going to jail, you then do not violate your conscience. The law that we violated has yet to be tested for its constitutionality."

But can a defendant or the prosecutor argue the issue in public before the trial is held?

The Supreme Court of the United States, in the famous case decided in June 1966 which overruled the verdict of murder against Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard of Cleveland, declared that he did not get a fair trial because of the publicity in the press and over the television before and during the period of the proceedings. Dr. Sheppard was then tried again and acquitted.

Ever since that decision, members of the bar and the press have debated what restrictions should be placed on publicity before and during trials. It had always been assumed heretofore that, if publicity in the local area is damaging to a defendant, his counsel could seek a transfer to some other county or area. Television, however, can cover not only one state but all of them at the same time. Hence, the views expressed by a defendant or his counsel who argued the case for him on TV could have their influence on prospective jurors anywhere unless the other side was given a chance to be heard at the same time.

This raises the question of why persons indicted for violating a law—such as Dr. Spock and Dr. Coffin—are able to present one side of the case to the public. Should not the federal district attorneys, who represent the prosecutors, be entitled to "equal time" to give their side?

Certainly if television is going to publicize the viewpoints of persons accused of crime, some way to provide the public with the opposite side of the case would seem to be logical. This, to be sure, presents many difficulties. For anyone who says anything publicly which can be construed as implying the guilt of a defendant can be sued for libel. Television broadcasters are not immune from such legal action.

In other words, the defendant enjoys a privilege which the prosecution is not likely to get unless authorized by law. Congress could pass a statute requiring that "equal time" be given and also stipulate that what ever is said about the case on television or radio would be just as privileged as if it were uttered in a courtroom.

There is nothing wrong with pre-trial publicity if the persons who are associated for the jury can dissociate themselves from what they have heard and can listen to the testimony in the courtroom and judge it impartially and objectively. This means intelligent jurors—those who can erase from their minds any preconceptions and consider only the evidence offered in the courtroom. Most jurors have read something about cases prior to being chosen for jury duty, and they usually pledge themselves when selected to deal fairly with the facts as presented, irrespective of what they might have heard before the trial began.

The whole episode raises a question as to whether any restrictions on the press or television or radio should really be imposed. One answer would seem to be to let the prosecution and defense have "equal time" and give all the participants immunity from libel suits.

Their reasoning is that, among the various potential opponents of President Johnson in the November election, Rockefeller could be the most dangerous. Therefore, they intend to do as much as they can to reinforce his professed reluctance to plunge back into the White House picture.

Travia's First Step
Travia already has taken the first step by serving notice on Rockefeller that he will have to produce every available Republican vote in the Assembly to win approval of his $5.6-billion budget and $494-million tax-increase package. Travia knows it is extremely unlikely that all 70 GOP assemblymen could be induced to support the fiscal program. And, even if they could, the governor still would be a half dozen votes short of the 76 required to pass bills in that house.

"Well," says Travia, "I might come up with a few votes in that case. Let's see what he can do first."

At the same time, Travia has let it be known that he is preparing for a long legislative session—not the usual three or four-month meeting—but six or seven months.

His explanation is that the fiscal plan alone is so complex and the proposed tax increases so critical, that the Legislature should not allow itself to be rushed into action.

Normally, the Legislature completes its study of the budget in time to enact it by April 1, the start of the state fiscal year. But Travia says he is willing to let this year's budget analysis run several weeks longer, if he thinks it necessary.

"I'm in no hurry," he says. "The Republicans can sweat it out."

Drew Pearson Says Nasser's Defeat by Israel Has Caused Mental Breakdown

WASHINGTON — Confidential diplomatic cables from the Near East report that Gamal Abdel Nasser is suffering from what appears to be a near mental collapse.

The strong man of Egypt has been so crushed by the June defeat at the hands of Israel that he has become an old man overnight. Gone is his dapper, jovial approach to life. He walks bent over, breathes heavily, swallows constantly. He has suffered a drastic loss in weight.

Arab leaders who have talked to him have been aghast at his mental condition. He is so depressed that he stares at the ceiling while Deputy Prime Minister Zakaria Mohiedin conducts meetings.

Nasser has now been defeated three times by the Israeli army. The first was in 1948 when Egypt attempted to prevent Israel from becoming an independent nation as the British withdrew. Because of that disastrous defeat, Nasser and some of his fellow colonels ousted King Farouk and took over Egypt.

Second time was in 1956 when, after constant Egyptian forays across the southern border, Israel staged a surprise raid and took the entire Sinai Peninsula up to the Suez Canal. At the behest of the United Nations and with a promise of free access to the sea, Israel finally withdrew.

The third defeat was last June, during the six-day war which Nasser had provoked by seizing the Gulf of Aqaba, thereby barring Israeli ships from the port of Elat, which Israel had developed as a substitute for the Suez Canal.

The Truth About Eartha
Washington is still talking about Eartha Kitt, the Negro nightclub entertainer who has been indicted for the murder of her husband, Earl W. Buttrick, Jr., who was shot to death in a New York City hotel room on the same day the story broke, the United States and Soviet Russia signed a nuclear proliferation pact which may affect the lives of millions. However, the headlines on how Eartha Kitt told off the First Lady aroused more interest than the vital Soviet-American move for peace.

Today, two weeks later, Eartha's speech is still bringing mail into the White House. Some new angles have also developed.

The burden of Eartha's impassioned confrontation with the First Lady was that there was rebellion in the streets and pot smoking by the hippies because of the war in Vietnam. She talked as a dedicated peacekeeper.

What Mrs. Johnson and her guests didn't know, however, was that at 9:45 that morning Eartha had called on Col. Ronald Bousley at the Pentagon and arranged to go to Vietnam herself to entertain the troops. She was not exactly a peacekeeper. She had even testified on Capitol Hill before Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., that not enough Negroes were going to Vietnam.

Yet, at 2 p. m., Eartha threw a peacekeeper diatribe at the First Lady. Then at 2 a. m., twelve hours later, she was seen coming into the Shoreman Hotel with peacekeeper Stokely Carmichael.

Another fact generally overlooked was that no First Lady since Mrs. Roosevelt has done more to focus attention on slum conditions than Lady Bird. Jackie Kennedy, after being invited repeatedly to visit Junior Village, the neglected D. C. government orphanage, finally did so only during her last few months in the White House. Mrs. Johnson has been there repeatedly, has toured impoverished Appalachia, the basement slums of Newark, N. J., the ghettos of New York, and the rural poverty area of Lick Branch, Kentucky. While she could not match Eartha Kitt's statement, "I have lived in the gutters," she has visited the gutters repeatedly.

This was one reason why, out of 5,000 letters received at the White House following the Eartha Kitt incident, 99 per cent were favorable to Mrs. Johnson.

Note: One letter, written not to the White House but to the Washington Post, came from Mrs. Agnes Meyer, widow of the Post's late publisher, Eugene Meyer. Mrs. Meyer, a pioneer social worker and a traditional dissenter, once gave $5,000 to Adlai Stevenson when her husband gave $5,000 to Dwight D. Eisenhower. This time she wrote a letter to the Post construed as differing from the Post's editorial on Eartha Kitt the day before.

The Post had defended Eartha's "feelings" as from an overflowing heart. Mrs. Meyer called them a "sudden unmanly attack" and paid tribute to Mrs. Johnson as a "great lady."

Mrs. Meyer's daughter, publisher Katharine Graham, a protector of dissent, promptly published her mother's letter.

Far Right Candidate
The headlines reporting George Romney playing basketball in New Hampshire and Dick Nixon watching the New Hampshire polls have overlooked the fact that the ex-son-in-law of President Roosevelt, Curtis B. Dall, has also entered the New Hampshire race. He is the Liberty Lobby candidate for President on the Republican ticket.

The Liberty Lobby is the far right organization which defines itself as "one of the most powerful non-partisan blocs on the right."

Dall and the Liberty Lobby lost a libel suit which he brought against this column which described Dall's testimony on Capitol Hill as anti-Semitic.

The Liberty Lobby lost a second suit before the Court of Appeals when it tried to stop publication of its own documents, quoting Willis Cato, founder of the Liberty Lobby, as advocating the deportation of all Negroes to Africa and claiming the United States made a mistake in entering the war against the Nazis. The Court of Appeals found the publication of the documents to be in the public interest.

Dall is now running for President in New Hampshire, claiming that he represents the real far right rather than George Wallace of Alabama.

Rockefeller tried to speed things a bit this week. He called Travia and his GOP counterpart, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, to a meeting and asked for swift action on his plan to cut back the Medicaid program to the reduced levels of federal support.

Balks at Speed-Up
Travia had indicated he might be willing to accept the governor's basic proposal, but the Democratic leader balked at any speed-up. No, he told Rockefeller, Medicaid is part of the whole budget picture and must be considered simultaneously with the budget.

Travia's object is to keep Rockefeller guessing and preoccupied with the fate of the governor's state legislative programs.

The speaker also says he intends to claim a full share of credit for the Democrats on political "plus" moves—such as increasing state aid for education and welfare.

"I've cooperated with him in the past," Travia says. "But there's been too much of this Republican-Democratic thing around here. I want to see some labels that just say 'Democratic' for a change."

American Bar Seeks Changes In Dealing With Criminals

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

Washington (AP) — The American Bar Association, once viewed generally as a Babbitt-like defender of the status quo, may revolutionize the way this society deals with its criminals.

A report issued recently by an ABA study committee suggests that packing a man off to prison for a term set by legislators, instead of by the judge, may not be the best way for society to protect its interests.

The judge, the committee advised, should be equipped with the law with a broad range of options, giving him a better chance to deal with the individual criminal in an individual way.

If the judge thought the convicted man would be rehabilitated best by remaining in society, he could impose a lenient sentence, or, in the case of less serious crimes, put the offender on probation immediately.

By the same token, serious crimes of violence would continue to result in stiff sentences. And the judge could impose the maximum on the big-time hood finally caught and convicted.

For Shorter Sentences
In the main, though, the report comes down on the side of shorter prison sentences. This, in view of the nation's obsession with "crime in the streets," is at least mildly revolutionary.

More so is the recommendation to judges that, in dealing with most crimes, "the starting point for every sentence should be probation or some other sentence not involving commitment or confinement."

Even if legislators could be convinced there is wisdom in this approach, a lot of judges would have to be convinced, too.

For the 11-member study group conceded, many judges regard incarceration as "the automatic sentencing response."

The proposed sentencing system would have cost-saving dividends. Not only does probation keep first-timers and small-time criminals from prison and from the chance to pick up new tricks from more experienced inmates, it is less expensive for society.

He added: "I would emphasize first that I think I am innocent and I think the young men who are resisting the draft are innocent and patriotic and courageous. But if the courts decide otherwise, then I am willing to go to jail, but I believe I am innocent."

D. Coffin said: "It has always been the American tradition not to surrender your conscience to the state. And if you have a choice of violating your conscience or going to jail, you then do not violate your conscience. . . . The law that we violated has yet to be tested for its constitutionality."

But can a defendant or the prosecutor argue the issue in public before the trial is held?

The Supreme Court of the United States, in the famous case decided in June 1966 which overruled the verdict of murder against Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard of Cleveland, declared that he did not get a fair trial because of the publicity in the press and over the television before and during the period of the proceedings. Dr. Sheppard was then tried again and acquitted.

Ever since that decision, members of the bar and the press have debated what restrictions should be placed on publicity before and during trials. It had always been assumed heretofore that, if publicity in the local area is damaging to a defendant, his counsel could seek a transfer to some other county or area. Television, however, can cover not only one state but all of them at the same time. Hence, the views expressed by a defendant or his counsel who argued the case for him on TV could have their influence on prospective jurors anywhere unless the other side was given a chance to be heard at the same time.

This raises the question of why persons indicted for violating a law—such as Dr. Spock and Dr. Coffin—are able to present one side of the case to the public. Should not the federal district attorneys, who represent the prosecutors, be entitled to "equal time" to give their side?

Certainly if television is going to publicize the viewpoints of persons accused of crime, some way to provide the public with the opposite side of the case would seem to be logical. This, to be sure, presents many difficulties. For anyone who says anything publicly which can be construed as implying the guilt of a defendant can be sued for libel. Television broadcasters are not immune from such legal action.

In other words, the defendant enjoys a privilege which the prosecution is not likely to get unless authorized by law. Congress could pass a statute requiring that "equal time" be given and also stipulate that what ever is said about the case on television or radio would be just as privileged as if it were uttered in a courtroom.

There is nothing wrong with pre-trial publicity if the persons who are chosen for the jury can disassociate themselves from what they have heard and can listen to the testimony in the courtroom and judge it impartially and objectively. This means intelligent jurors—those who can erase from their minds any preconceptions and consider only the evidence offered in the courtroom. Most jurors have read something about cases prior to being chosen for jury duty, and they usually pledge themselves when selected to deal fairly with the facts as presented, irrespective of what they might have heard before the trial began.

The whole episode raises a question as to whether any restrictions on the press or television or radio should really be imposed. One answer would seem to be to let the prosecution and defense have "equal time" and give all the participants immunity from libel suits.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The first time I saw Chi-Chi she was fourth from the left in a Broadway musical, lifting the right knee in tempo with the other girls, then flexing the leg straight out and dropping it to the stage. The last time I saw her she was in court, both knees jellied, as a coroner acquitted her.

Between those times, she was small and dark and shapely, with shiny black hair to the shoulders. The eyes were large Concord grapes, trusting and ignorant. For men, the key to Chi-Chi was a hard luck story. Aggression didn't work; gifts meant nothing; but pity opened all the doors.

Chester married her. He deserves a special chapter because his father died early and left this yellow-headed, more money than there is in Switzerland. The kid had no personality at all, except for a tinge of paranoia. He was sure that every goorman who nodded was trying to get his money. Secretly, he thought of himself as clever. One step ahead of the moochers.

Chi-Chi had a few dates with him, and almost had to pay for her own drinks. When he proposed marriage, after a mass conference with family lawyers, Chi-Chi said yes because she felt that Chester was a poor little rich boy who couldn't deduct one apple from three apples without screaming "Stop thief!"

The honeymoon was spent on Chester's family estate near Spindale, N. C. Chi-Chi was content because she had never felt an emotion, except compassion, so she kept telling her friends that there was nothing new. Chester, on the other hand, was as happy as a nut with a steam shovel inside Fort Knox. He chided her for not looking ahead.

Looking ahead at what? she asked. Chester sat in the drawing room under the oil portraits of his august ancestors, and told her that one must always look ahead in life. Otherwise, one can be swindled by mercenary women. Chi-Chi said she didn't understand. From his wallet, Chester took a photo and displayed it to his bride at a safe distance.

It was not a pleasant photo. It showed Chi-Chi and a theatre orchestra leader in a naughty pose. The law refers to it as flagrante delicto. The musician wasn't even wearing his baton. "That," said Chi-Chi angrily, "was something which happened long before I met you."

"I know, I know," said Chester soothingly. "But I have paid this silly man a good sum to swear that it was taken after we were married." The bride began to weep. "Why?" she begged. "Why?" Chester smiled condescendingly. "So that," he said, "if you ever leave me for any reason, I can nail you in court for adultery and you won't get a dime of my daddy's scratch."

She said she didn't want money. "What I'm trying to teach you," her husband said, "is always to look ahead. You are naive. You have a sweet innocence about you, and the innocent were made to be taken by those who look ahead—me."

It was never much of a marriage. Still, Chi-Chi was so ignorant that she still felt sorry for him. Now and then, when she was happy and humming around the palatial mansion like a mockingbird, he would flash the picture at her and the diminutive damsel would fall from twittering to tears.

Out of the household money, she saved $3,000 and asked him if she should buy a small amount of stock. Yes, Chester said, "buy Klautmeyer's Frankfurters at eight and a quarter." She bought. In a month it was selling at two. Chi-Chi cried. "See?" he said. "You don't look ahead. I knew that Klautmeyer had a disastrous year. You can't give that stock away. There was nothing to keep you from looking it up."

"I trust my husband," she said, moaning. "Ah," he said, another mistake. I trust nobody. I not only have every dollar dear dead daddy left to me, but two million more acorns I picked up swindling a few friends."

He forced her to ride to hounds, when he knew she hated horses. He ordered her to fly in his plane when she was terrified. Nor was he above telling snide little jokes about Chi-Chi to his friends. Once, she looked up at some wild rhododendron. "There," she whispered. "Quail," Chester said. "Shhh. I'll flush em, and you'd better get at least one or I'll show that picture to my guests." He crept over, quietly, and into the bush.

Chi-Chi stood poised as the others moved off. Her husband stood up in the bush. "You nut," he said. "There's no - - - Two shots rang out. The first missed. The second gave Chester a third ear in his head. In court, the coroner gave all the estate to Chi-Chi. "It's a pity," he said, that, before firing that gun, you didn't look ahead...."

Drew Pearson Says Nasser's Defeat by Israel Has Caused Mental Breakdown

WASHINGTON.—Confidential diplomatic cables from the Near East report that Gamal Abdel Nasser is suffering from what appears to be a near mental collapse.

The strong man of Egypt has been so crushed by the June defeat at the hands of Israel that he has become an old man overnight. Gone is his dapper, jovial approach to life. He walks bent over, breathes heavily, swallows constantly. He has suffered a drastic loss in weight.

Arab leaders who have talked to him have been aghast at his mental condition. He is so depressed that he stares at the ceiling while Deputy Prime Minister Zakaria Mohieddin conducts meetings.

Nasser has now been defeated three times by the Israeli army. The first was in 1948 when Egypt attempted to prevent Israel from becoming an independent nation as the British withdrew. Because of that disastrous defeat, Nasser and some of his fellow colonels ousted King Farouk and took over Egypt.

Second time was in 1956 when, after constant Egyptian forays across the southern border, Israel staged a surprise raid and took the entire Sinai Peninsula up to the Suez Canal. At the behest of the United Nations and with a promise of free access to the sea, Israel finally withdrew.

The third defeat was last June, during the six-day war which Nasser had provoked by seizing the Gulf of Aqaba, thereby barring Israeli ships from the port of Elat, which Israel had developed as a substitute for the Suez Canal.

The Truth About Eartha. Washington is still talking about Eartha Kitt, the Negro nightclub entertainer who heckled Mrs. Johnson at a White House luncheon on crime. On the same day the story broke, the United States and Soviet Russia signed a nuclear proliferation pact which may affect the lives of millions. However, the headlines on how Eartha Kitt told off the First Lady aroused more interest than the vital Soviet-American move for peace.

Today, two weeks later, Eartha's speech is still bringing mail into the White House. Some new angles have also developed.

The burden of Eartha's impassioned confrontation with the First Lady was that there was rebellion in the streets and pot smoking by the hippies because of the war in Vietnam. She talked as a dedicated peacekeeper.

What Mrs. Johnson and her guests didn't know, however, was that at 9:45 that morning Eartha had called on Col. Roland Beasley at the Pentagon and arranged to go to Vietnam herself to entertain the troops. She was not exactly a peacekeeper. She had even testified on Capitol Hill before Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., that not enough Negroes were going to Vietnam.

Yet, at 2 p. m., Eartha threw a peacekeeper diatribe at the First Lady. Then at 2 a. m., twelve hours later, she was seen coming into the Shoreham Hotel with peacekeeper Stokely Carmichael.

Another fact generally overlooked was that no First Lady since Mrs. Roosevelt has done more to focus attention on slum conditions than Lady Bird. Jackie Kennedy, after being invited repeatedly to visit Junior Village, the neglected D. C. government orphanage, finally did so only during her last few months in the White House. Mrs. Johnson has been there repeatedly, has toured impoverished Appalachia, the basement slums of Newark, N. J., the ghettos of New York, and the rural poverty area of Lick Branch, Kentucky. While she could not match Eartha Kitt's statement, "I have lived in the gutters," she has visited the gutters repeatedly.

This was one reason why, out of 5,000 letters received at the White House following the Eartha Kitt incident, 99 per cent were favorable to Mrs. Johnson.

Note: One letter, written not to the White House but to the Washington Post, came from Mrs. Agnes Meyer, widow of the Post's late publisher, Eugene Meyer. Mrs. Meyer, a pioneer social worker and a traditional dissenter, once gave $5,000 to Adlai Stevenson when her husband gave $5,000 to Dwight D. Eisenhower. This time she wrote a letter to the Post construed as differing from the Post's editorial on Eartha Kitt the day before.

The Post had defended Eartha's "feelings" as from an overflowing heart. Mrs. Meyer called them a "sudden unmanly attack" and paid tribute to Mrs. Johnson as a "great lady."

Mrs. Meyer's daughter, publisher Katharine Graham, a protector of dissent, promptly published her mother's letter.

Far Right Candidate

The headlines reporting George Romney playing basketball in New Hampshire and Dick Nixon watching the New Hampshire polls have overlooked the fact that the ex-son-in-law of President Roosevelt, Curtis B. Dall, has also entered the New Hampshire race. He is the Liberty Lobby candidate for President on the Republican ticket.

The Liberty Lobby is the far right organization which defines itself as "one of the most powerful non-partisan blocs on the right."

Dall and the Liberty Lobby lost a libel suit which he brought against this column which described Dall's testimony on Capitol Hill as anti-Semitic.

The Liberty Lobby lost a second suit before the Court of Appeals when it tried to stop publication of its own documents quoting Willis Carto, founder of the Liberty Lobby, as advocating the deportation of all Negroes to Africa and claiming the United States made a mistake in entering the war against the Nazis. The Court of Appeals found the publication of the documents to be in the public interest.

Dall is now running for President in New Hampshire, claiming that he represents the real far right rather than George Wallace of Alabama.

State Democratic Leaders To Keep Rockefeller Busy

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia is going to do his utmost to keep Gov. Rockefeller's home fires burning.

As a calculated strategy, Travia hopes to deter Rockefeller from venturing into the national political arena by giving him a hot time in the old town of Albany during the next several months.

The Legislature's most powerful Democrat and his state chairman, John J. Burns, have decided they will serve their party best by distracting the Republican governor from presidential politics.

Their reasoning is that, among the various potential opponents of President Johnson in the November election, Rockefeller could be the most dangerous. Therefore, they intend to do as much as they can to reinforce his professed reluctance to plunge back into the White House picture.

Travia's First Step. Travia already has taken the first step by serving notice on Rockefeller that he will have to produce every available Republican vote in the Assembly to win approval of his $5.6-billion budget and $494-million tax-increase package.

Travia knows it is extremely unlikely that all 70 GOP assemblymen could be induced to support the fiscal program. And, even if they could be, the governor still would be a half dozen votes short of the 76 required to pass bills in that house.

"Well," says Travia, "I might come up with a few votes in that case. Let's see what he can do first."

At the same time, Travia has let it be known that he is preparing for a long legislative session—not the usual three or four-month meeting—but six or seven months.

His explanation is that the fiscal plan alone is so complex, and the proposed tax increases so critical, that the Legislature should not allow itself to be rushed into action.

Normally, the Legislature completes its study of the budget in time to enact it by April 1, the start of the state fiscal year. But Travia says he is willing to let this year's budget analysis run several weeks longer, if he thinks it necessary.

"I'm in no hurry," he says. "The Republicans can sweat it out."

Rockefeller tried to speed things a bit this week. He called Travia and his GOP counterpart, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, to a meeting and asked for a swift action on his plan to cut back the Medicaid program to the reduced levels of federal support.

Balks at Speed-Up

Travia had indicated he might be willing to accept the governor's basic proposal, but the Democratic leader balked at any speed-up. No, he told Rockefeller, Medicaid is part of the whole budget picture and must be considered simultaneously with the budget.

Travia's object is to keep Rockefeller guessing and preoccupied with the fate of the governor's state legislative programs.

The speaker also says he intends to claim a full share of credit for the Democrats on political "plus" moves—such as increasing state aid for education and welfare.

"I've cooperated with him in the past," Travia says. "But there's been too much of this Republican-Democratic thing around here. I want to see some labels that just say 'Democratic' for a change."

American Bar Seeks Changes In Dealing With Criminals

By BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Writer. Washington (AP)—The American Bar Association, once viewed generally as a Babbitt-like defender of the status quo, may revolutionize the way this society deals with its criminals.

A report issued recently by an ABA study committee suggests that packing a man off to prison for a term set by legislators, instead of by the judge may not be the best way for society to protect its interests.

The judge, the committee advised, should be equipped by the law with a broad range of options, giving him a better chance to deal with the individual criminal in an individual way.

If the judge thought the convicted man would be rehabilitated best by remaining in society, he could impose a lenient sentence, or, in the case of less serious crime, put the offender on probation immediately. By the same token, serious crimes of violence would continue to result in stiff sentences. And the judge could impose the maximum on the big-time hood finally caught and convicted.

For Shorter Sentences

In the main, though, the report comes down on the side of shorter prison sentences. This, in view of the nation's obsession with "crime in the streets," is at least mildly revolutionary.

More so is the recommendation to judges that, in dealing with most crimes, "the starting point for every sentence should be probation or some other sentence not involving commitment or confinement."

Even if legislators could be convinced there is wisdom in this approach, a lot of judges would have to be convinced, too.

For the 11-member study group conceded, many judges regard incarceration as "the automatic sentencing response."

The proposed sentencing system would have cost-saving dividends. Not only does probation keep first-time and small-time criminals, from prison and from the chance to pick up new tricks from more experienced inmates, it is less expensive for society.

For instance, federal figures show the daily cost of keeping a man on probation in 1964 was 59 cents; the cost of keeping a man in federal prison, $6.35 a day.

The ABA report reminds, also, that when a man is on probation he can be earning a salary—and keeping his family off welfare.

Doesn't Fit the Crime

No serious report on current sentencing practice would be complete without a frank observation that punishment very often doesn't fit the crime—and sometimes doesn't make sense.

"It is easily demonstrable in most states," the panel said, "that the sanctions available for different offenses are utterly without any rational basis."

Among examples culled from recent studies: In Colorado, if you destroyed a house by fire you could get up to 20 years. If you destroyed the same house with explosives the most you could get would be 10 years. In California, a boy who broke into a car to steal the contents of the glove compartment could be sentenced to 15 years. If he stole the car itself, the maximum sentence would be 10 years.

Spanish-American Vets

Give Support to Gen. Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — They were all volunteers in their war back in 1898 and they don't mention to the antics of young men who don't want to serve in today's war in Vietnam.

As James H. McElroy, adjutant general of the United Spanish War Veterans, will tell you, the 9,000 living veterans of the Spanish-American War rank patriotism, Americanism and respect for the flag high among the virtues.

"I'll tell you, we're all behind Gen. Hershey, he's right," McElroy volunteered in a telephone interview, referring to Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, who has suggested speedy induction of youths who violate the law while opposing the draft.

"There'll be a day of reckoning," McElroy continued. "In our day, it was 'My country, right or wrong.' We were all volunteers in the Spanish-American War. Now young fellows are trying to get out of serving their country and are forming belligerent groups."

"We can't pull out of Vietnam," he said. "And I'm talking for the whole damn organization when I say that. We fought that out at our last convention."

McElroy, 86, heads an organization whose members are, on the average, slightly older than he is.

The average would be a little higher, he explained, except some members were only 14 when they entered the Navy as apprentices in 1898, and they're only 83 now.

As might be expected, their main concerns now revolve around pensions and medical benefits for themselves and the widows of their departed comrades.

A pension bill Congress passed last year was a great victory, McElroy said, and the battle for it took far longer than the Spanish-American War.

The war lasted only three months, Spain abandoned Cuba and ceded Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines to the United States.

Some 458,000 Americans served in the war. Those still living are almost the oldest American veterans, predated only by two veterans of the Indian wars—Frederick Frasier, 98, of Chicago, and Reginald Bradley, 100, of Oakland, Calif. The last veteran of the Civil War died in 1959.

The Spanish-American brotherhood is in its twilight.

"Its lines are steadily growing thinner, and the tramp of its column is with ever-lessening tread," said an anonymous tribute circulated by the organization.

But thousands of them have lived to see the Cuba whose independence they helped to secure turn against the United States. Do they now regret helping Cuba so long ago?

"No, we're not sorry about it," said McElroy. "We're just kind of proud that we did such a short job of it."

Dems Slate 4th Snow Ball

The Democratic club of Austerlitz, Chatham and Ghent will hold its fourth annual Snow Ball on Saturday, Feb. 10, at Kozel's in West Ghent. Congressmen Joseph Y. Resnick will be guest of honor, with Bart Delaney of Hudson serving as master of ceremonies.

Robert Whittam, club president, says the Snow Ball committee promises an even more delightful time this year for those who attend. The committee consists of Mrs. Marilynne Whittam, general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Florence Whitehead and Mrs. Ella Bidwell. The Smiths, Joanne Hanson, Bessie Mmes and Dollie Decker are assisting with arrangements. Tickets may be obtained from any of the above or from Mrs. Nancy Testa, Mrs. Mary Potts, Mrs. Mert Alamillo, Howard Gibbons and Mike DiMoria.

CANDIDATE ROCKEFELLER — John D. ## Prisoner Is Transferred After Life Is Threatened

BY ED SHEARER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A prisoner who led authorities to the unmarked graves of three men at Cummins Prison Farm has been transferred to another prison because of reported threats on his life.

Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton said Thursday the "indications of threats" against Reuben Johnson, 59, gave credence to Johnson's story that murdered inmates were buried on the prison grounds.

Johnson pointed out the pasture at the prison where the skeletons of three men were exhumed Monday, touching off speculation that more bodies were buried in a clandestine graveyard for murdered convicts. Johnson said he helped bury 10 or 12 slain inmates.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller was skeptical about reports from some state officials that the bones came from paupers' graves.

"I am sure they would be able to produce the records if it is a paupers' graveyard," Rockefeller said. "There are no records available showing that they ever established a paupers' graveyard at Cummins."

Murton related details of the alleged threat against Johnson at a joint news conference with the governor.

Murton, who became Superintendent Jan. 1, said he had transferred Johnson to the smaller Tucker Prison Farm 30 miles southeast of Little Rock Wednesday. Johnson became the first Negro inmate at Tucker except for those under a death sentence.

Murton said information had drifted to him from the white inmate population at Cummins that "several of them were going to wipe him (Johnson) out."

"I don't know if the report was valid or not, but it might be and it certainly lends credence to his story," Murton said. Johnson has estimated that as many as 2,000 bodies might be buried at Cummins.

Murton, who came here to discuss "recent developments" at the prison with the governor, said the motive of any men who might threaten Johnson's life was obvious.

"Some may have thought they might be implicated and possibly face court prosecution," Murton said. Rockefeller appeared to be irritated at the amount of publicity.

YMCA Leaders To Discuss Drive On Local Radio

N. LeVan Haver, general chairman for the YMCA Building Fund, announced today that Harry Thayer, president of WGHQ and WGHQ-FM, has invited the YMCA to participate in an hour-long, face-to-face discussion of the YMCA and its capital fund campaign to raise $1,860,000 under way.

Mr. Haver indicated that, in addition to himself, participating in the discussion with Thayer will be Robert Stubbs, executive director of the YMCA and Paul Coon, public relations chairman of the YMCA and the capital fund campaign.

Thayer indicated that his station has received numerous inquiries as to the scope and the value of a new YMCA for Kingston and Ulster County, and felt that this weekend would be a fitting time to discuss it, as the campaign kickoff dinner is to take place at the Governor Clinton Monday night, Feb. 5.

The program will be heard on AM from 4 to 5 p. m. Sunday, Feb. 4, and will be on FM Monday, Feb. 5, at 8:05 p. m.

Air Pollution Head Calls for Bond Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — Austin N. Heller, commissioner of air pollution control, has called for a $1-billion state bond issue to finance new clean-air facilities including refuse-fired incinerators to produce heat and power.

Heller urged Thursday at the third session of the 1968 federal conference on New York-New Jersey metropolitan air pollution that the state follow the precedent set by its $1-billion clean water program.

He said the state bonds could be used to pay for municipal incinerators to burn refuse without pollution and to supply steam for central-heating facilities, especially in slum areas where anthracite coal is now used.

Bonds could also be used to convert the heating systems of public schools, hospitals and housing to use interruptible gas and low-sulfur fuels and to set up inspection stations to enforce automobile-pollution control, Heller said.

The water-bond issue was passed by the voters in 1965 after approval by the legislature and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The bonds are used to pay for construction of sewage treatment and other water-purification facilities throughout the state.

In other action Thursday, Heller joined Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and the Consolidated Edison Co. in calling on the interior Department to lift federal quotas and allow the importation of low-sulfur oil for the East Coast as it has done for the West Coast.

Sen. Ed Chairman Charles F. Lucie testified that foreign crude oil is at least $1 a barrel cheaper than domestic oil.

Levitt Checks Town Records

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has announced that his department has completed an inspection of the fiscal records of a number of Ulster County towns and fire districts.

They include the towns of Kingston, Lloyd and Denning and fire districts in Claryville, Neversink and Sawkill.

Copies of examination reports have been sent to town clerks and other officials of the units of government examined. Since these reports are part of the public record, they are available for review by interested persons. They are also on file with the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and are available for inspection.

Killed by Auto

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Edward McNulty, 56, who had been living at a Syracuse motel, was killed Thursday night when struck by an automobile while walking near the downtown section, police said.

His address was given as the Workman Motel.

Shoplifting Charge

A 23-year-old Saugerties man was arrested for shoplifting by Security Officer Herbert O'Brien Thursday night at Caldor's Department Store, Town of Ulster, and charged with the theft of two tubes of model airplane glue. Alan Canoles of Route 2, Box 466 pleaded innocent at arraignment before Town of Ulster Justice Sherwood Davis and requested assignment of an attorney.

He was committed to county jail in lieu of $50 bail and his case scheduled for Feb. 9. Security Officer O'Brien after the arrest placed Canoles into the custody of Kingston Trooper Carl Van Wagenen.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market entered the second day of a strong technical rebound early Friday. Trading was active. The ticker tape lagged.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 3 to 1. The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.82 to 865.16.

Blue chips were in gear with the "flyers" in the glamor group as the market recovered from what analysts called an oversold condition.

Some credit was given for the recovery to an administration statement that the U.S. is willing to try again, through the Korean Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom, to win release of the Pueblo and her crew.

New Rules on Deductions For Medical Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Examine your deductible personal expenses when you make out your tax return on 1967 income.

For many people the standard deduction which the government allows everyone filing a return more than covers their deductible expenses.

If you exceed the standard deduction, you can claim them in full but then you'll have to itemize them to prove you had them. In this case you must use Form 1040 and figure your own tax.

There have been some changes in the rules on deductions for medical expenses.

In their 1966 returns people 65 or older could deduct their medical expenses in full. Not any longer. In their returns on 1967 income they have been put under the same rules as those applying to people under 65.

(Note: There used to be a limit on the total amount anyone could deduct for medical expenses. No longer. There's no limit now.)

But here are the rules, although before you start remembering you must not include in your medical expenses those for which you have been reimbursed.

State and local sales taxes. At least 44 states and the District of Columbia have such taxes.

1. You can deduct one-half the cost of your medical insurance up to a limit of $150, whether or not you have any other deductible medical expenses. (But when you claim medical deductions you must itemize them and cannot use the standard deduction.)

2. Then if you have other deductible medical expenses you must figure the cost of medical care separately from the cost of medical care itself.

3. First—add up your medical expenses. Then, from that total, subtract 1 percent of your income on Page 1, Line 9, Form 1040. What's left is deductible—but not quite.

4. You then add this medical expense deductible to the cost of your medical care, including the rest of the cost of your medical insurance. (See No. 1 above on the cost of the first half of the medical insurance.)

5. You now have the total medical cost deductible. But you can't deduct that in full or perhaps even at all. You can deduct only that part of the total medical cost that exceeds 3 percent of your income on Page 1, Line 9, Form 1040.

Note this: If you are 65 or over you can deduct nothing for the hospitalization part of the government's medicare program. But if you made monthly payments for the second or supplemental part of that program—medical treatment—you can deduct in full for that. The cost in 1967 was about $3 a month.

Here are some other personal expenses you can deduct:

Non-Deductible
You cannot deduct federal Social Security taxes, federal income taxes, you can also deduct losses on property such as your home, clothing, or automobile destroyed or damaged by fire, stolen from you, the cost of business entertainment.

Here are some expenses you can't deduct:

Travel to and from work; entertaining friends; bribes and illegal payments; losses on property lost in storage or transit; losses on damage by rust, erosion, or deterioration.

You cannot deduct gifts to relatives, friends or other individuals or to political organizations or candidates or to social clubs, labor unions, a chamber of commerce or a propaganda organization.

You can deduct for union dues and dues to professional societies, alimony payments by the person making them, fees to employment agencies, and books and newspapers bought for use in your profession.

Spanish-American Vets

Give Support to Gen. Hershey

WASHINGTON (AP) — They were all volunteers in their war back in 1898 and they don't cotton to the antics of young men who don't want to serve in today's war in Vietnam.

As James H. McElroy, adjutant general of the United Spanish War Veterans, will tell you, the 9,000 living veterans of the Spanish-American War rank patriotism, Americanism and respect for the flag high among the virtues.

"I'll tell you, we're all behind Gen. Hershey, he's right," McElroy volunteered in a telephone interview, referring to Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, who has suggested speedy induction of youths who violate the law while opposing the draft.

"There'll be a day of reckoning," McElroy continued. "In our day, it was 'My country, right or wrong.' We were all volunteers in the Spanish-American War. Now young fellows are trying to get out of serving their country and are forming belligerent groups."

"We can't pull out of Vietnam," he said. "And I'm talking for the whole damn organization when I say that. We fought that out at our last convention."

McElroy, 86, heads an organization whose members are, on the average, slightly older than he is.

The average would be a little higher, he explained, except some members were only 14 when they entered the Navy as apprentices in 1898, and they're only 83 now.

As might be expected their main concerns now revolve around pensions and medical benefits for themselves and the widows of their departed comrades.

A pension bill Congress passed last year was a great victory, McElroy said, and the battle for it took far longer than the Spanish-American War.

The war lasted only three months. Spain abandoned Cuba and ceded Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines to the United States.

Some 458,000 Americans served in the war. Those still living are almost the oldest American veterans, predated only by two veterans of the Indian wars—Frederick Friske, 98, of Chicago, and Reginald Bradley, 100, of Oakland, Calif.

The last veteran of the Civil War died in 1959.

The Spanish-American brotherhood is in its twilight.

"Its lines are steadily growing thinner, and the tramp of its column is with ever-lessening tread," says an anonymous tribute circulated by the organization.

But thousands of them have lived to see the Cuba whose independence they helped to secure turn against the United States. Do they now regret helping Cuba so long ago?

"No, we're not sorry about it," said McElroy. "We're just kind of proud that we did such a short job of it."

Prisoner Is Transferred After Life Is Threatened

BY ED SHEARER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A prisoner who led authorities to the unmarked graves of three men at Cummins Prison Farm has been transferred to another prison because of reported threats on his life.

Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton said Thursday the "indications of threats" against Reuben Johnson, 59, gave credence to Johnson's story that murdered inmates were buried on the prison grounds.

Johnson pointed out the pasture at the prison where the skeletons of three men were exhumed Monday, touching off speculation that more bodies were buried in a clandestine graveyard for murdered convicts. Johnson says he helped bury 10 or 12 slain inmates.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller was skeptical about reports from some state officials that the bones came from a paupers' graveyard.

"I am sure they would be able to produce the records if it is a paupers' graveyard," Rockefeller said. "There are no records available showing that they ever established a paupers' graveyard at Cummins."

Murton related details of the alleged threat against Johnson at a joint news conference with the governor.

Murton, who became Superintendent Jan. 1, said he had transferred Johnson to the smaller Tucker Prison Farm 30 miles southeast of Little Rock Wednesday. Johnson became the first Negro inmate at Tucker except for those under a death sentence.

Murton said information had drifted to him from the white inmate population at Cummins that "several of them were going to wipe him (Johnson) out."

"I don't know if the report was valid or not, but it might be and it certainly lends credence to his story," Murton said.

Johnson has estimated that as many as 2,000 bodies might be buried at Cummins.

Murton, who came here to discuss "recent developments" at the prison with the governor, said the motive of any men who might threaten Johnson's life was obvious.

"Some may have thought they might be implicated and possibly face court prosecution," Murton said.

Rockefeller appeared to be irritated at the amount of publicity received from the discovery of the skeletons.

"I don't look forward to running a sideshow at Cummins," Rockefeller said. "This is a prison."

Rockefeller said he and Murton had received letters and telephone calls from persons claiming to be ex-convicts in Arkansas who said they knew where other bodies were buried. He suggested that some of these reports were from "publicity seekers."

An investigation is under way by the criminal investigation division of the state police to determine whether the skeletons came from a paupers' graveyard or a secret burial ground for murdered inmates.

Air Pollution Head Calls for Bond Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — Austin N. Heller, commissioner of air pollution control, has called for a $1-billion state bond issue to finance new clean-air facilities including refuse-fired incinerators to produce heat and power.

Heller urged Thursday at the third session of the 1968 federal conference on New York-New Jersey metropolitan air pollution that the state follow the precedent set by its $1-billion clean water program.

He said the state bonds could be used to pay for municipal incinerators able to burn refuse without pollution and to supply steam for central-heating facilities, "especially in slum areas where anthracite coal is now used."

Bonds could also be used to convert the heating systems of public schools, hospitals and housing to use interruptible gas and low-sulfur fuels and to set up inspection stations to enforce automobile-pollution control, Heller said.

The water-bond issue was passed by the voters in 1965 after approval by the legislature and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The bonds are used to pay for construction of sewage treatment and other water-purification facilities throughout the state.

In other action Thursday, Heller joined Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and the Consolidated Edison Co. in calling on the interior Department to lift federal quotas and allow the importation of low-sulfur oil for the East Coast as it has done for the West Coast.

Con Ed Chairman Charles F. Luce testified that foreign crude oil is at least $1 a barrel cheaper than domestic oil.

Levitt Checks Town Records

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has announced that his department has completed an inspection of the fiscal records of a number of Ulster County towns and fire districts.

They include the towns of Kingston, Lloyd and Denning and fire districts in Claryville, Neversink and Sawkill.

Copies of examination reports have been sent to town clerks and other officials of the units of government examined. Since these reports are part of the public record, they are available for review by interested persons. They are also on file with the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and are available for inspection.

Killed by Auto

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Edward McNulty, 56, who had been living at a Syracuse motel, was killed Thursday night when struck by an automobile while walking near the downtown section, police said.

His address was given as the Workman Motel.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market entered the second day of a strong technical rebound early Friday. Trading was active. The ticker tape lagged.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 3 to 1. The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.82 to 865.16. Blue chips were in gear with the "flyers" in the glamor group as the market recovered from what analysts called an oversold condition.

Some credit was given for the recovery to an administration statement that the U.S. is willing to try again, through the Korean Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjon, to win release of the Pueblo and her crew.

California Students Hold Nude Experimental Session

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — University of California officials say 14 students, male and female, met last week in a nude "sensory awareness" session that lasted several hours.

Their instructor, Asst. Prof. Jerry Friedberg, told officials he was not at the class meeting, held last week at an off-campus home, and learned of it only Monday.

Friedberg, 29, said five of the 14 students, undressed, and all sat in a semicircle and held hands.

The administration at UC's Davis campus made it plain today it would seek to disband the experimental course.

Chancellor Emil K. Mrak said he would take no disciplinary action against the students because only five were taking the course for academic credit, and they have since dropped the credits.

Friedberg, who holds a political science doctorate from Harvard, said the students conducted a general discussion on sensory awareness, perception and insight into a person's own needs and needs of others.

The session was likened by Friedberg to avant garde teaching methods in which the students, for example, feel the texture of a table or describe the sensation of peeling an avocado.

Friedberg and Robert Bynum, university public affairs director, said the students apparently did not have sexual relations.

The session was conducted under the university-approved "faculty 48" program in which a professor teaches an informal course in a subject he knows but does not teach regularly. Some classes are held off campus, others in university buildings.

Because more than 100 students signed up for his "sensory awareness" program, Friedberg split the class up into several smaller study sections and assigned a "student intermediary" to conduct each one. It was one of these sections which held the unorthodox session.

The Davis campus is 70 miles northeast of San Francisco.

On Pay Increases

Inflation Bite Big

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation took the biggest percentage bite in seven years from pay increases and other income gains won by Americans during 1967, the federal government reports.

The after-tax income average for every man, woman and child in the nation last year rose by $151 to $2,735, the government said today, but when adjusted to take in inflation's effect on prices the gain boiled down to only $74. When figured at 1958 price level, the per capita income would be $2,391.

The report came in the newest compilation of economic data prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

President Johnson's key argument in his fight for congressional approval of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal is that it would help stem inflation. But he has run into strong opposition on Capitol Hill and there were increasing indications the administration would settle for something less than a 10 per cent hike.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler recently referred to the tax bill "as proposed or in amended form" and it has been learned the phrase "amend for" was used deliberately to show the administration isn't taking an all-or-nothing stand.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, said he talked in detail with administration officials before proposing a 6 per cent surcharge for individuals and 8 per cent for corporations.

The council's report on income also showed Americans saved more after-tax income—7.1 per cent—than at any time since the Korean War and that the federal government did there.

The deficit was the first for a calendar year since 1964 when it ran $3 billion into the red.

This account started into deficit during the third quarter of 1966 and the deficit ran at an annual rate of $14.7 billion by the second quarter of last year. It has declined since but only slightly.

New Credit Law May Be Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The far-reaching House bill to require plain language disclosure of interest and other credit costs stands a good chance of Senate approval without major changes, Senate sympathizers say.

The House passed the legislation 382 to 4 Thursday following much closer votes nailing into it a number of sections that go far beyond the similar bill the Senate approved last year. The differences remain to be worked out in a Senate-House conference.

"We hope we can preserve most of the strengthening amendments in conference," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. "I am delighted at the House bill."

Principal Sponsor Proxmire was a principal sponsor of the legislation in the Senate, but found his original version somewhat trimmed there.

As approved by the House, the bill not only applies broadly the principle that finance charges should be stated in terms of annual percentage, but also strictly limits garnishments of wages for debt and adds the force of federal law enforcement to state laws against usury.

Under its terms, a store offering revolving credit could no longer tell a customer the charge is, for example, 1 1/2 per cent monthly on the unpaid balance. It would have to state the annual percentage—for example, 18 per cent.

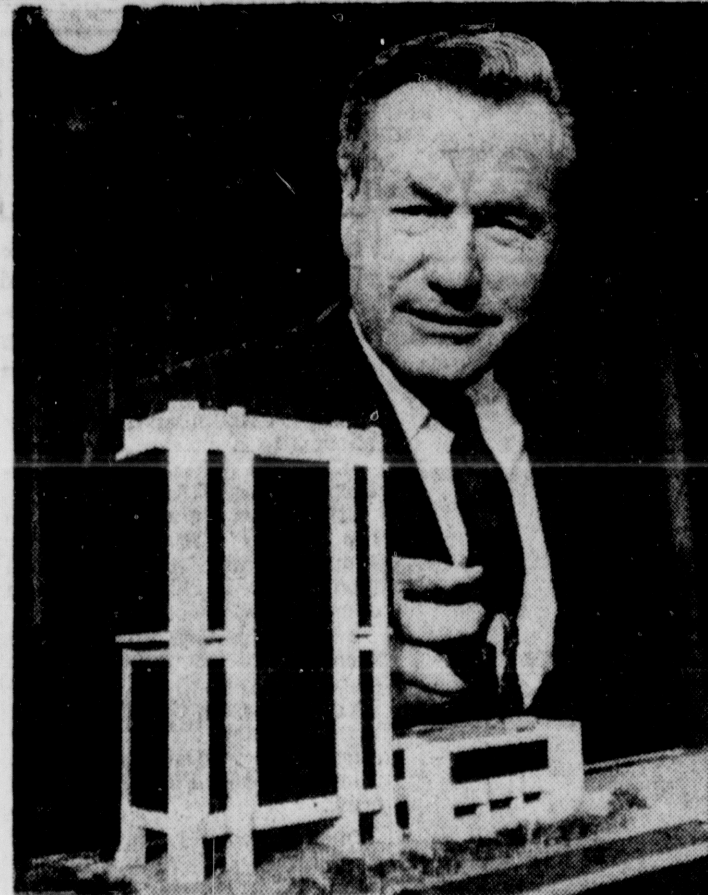

Homeowners would be protected by a cooling-off provision against quick sign-up salesmen who might sell them home improvements without telling them the sale involves adding mortgages to their homes.

Stores could no longer advertise only "$5 down, $5 a week." They would have to say how many payments were required and what the cash rate was.

The first $30 of weekly earnings could not be garnished. Above that, only 10 per cent could be diverted to pay debts. Workers could not be fired because of one garnishment.

Amended Bill In a move directed against loan-shark operations by criminal syndicates, the bill was amended to provide federal penalties for violating state usury laws, with the penalties rising steeply to 25 years imprisonment in cases involving violence or conspiracy.

Joining Proxmire in congratulating the principal House sponsor of the legislation, Rep. Leonard K. Sullivan, D-Mo., was former Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who led a six year fight in the Senate for similar legislation.

Attack Union Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — An angry crowd of 7,000 sanitation men demanding an immediate strike against the city attacked their union leader after an unruly City Hall demonstration today.

John J. DeLury, president of the United Sanitationmen's Association, told the rally that a strike vote would have to be taken by mail.

But the crowd, shouting and cursing, surged upon DeLury as he stepped down from a sound truck. They toppled barricades and several men landed blows on DeLury before policemen surrounded him.

DeLury had asked for a voice vote on whether to accept the latest mediation proposal for a new contract. This was overwhelmingly shouted down. He told the men he was still bound to send out a mail referendum. The union members booed and grew angrier and when DeLury dismounted the sound truck they took after him.

As the sanitation men gathered near the City Hall, refuse and garbage went uncollected.

U.S. troops repulsed an attack on a supply company depot near the dock area. On the main highway from Saigon to Bien Hoa, they recaptured a bridge and reported killing 11 Viet Cong.

Scattered sniper fire was reported during Thursday night at Tan Son Nhut airbase. The airport was open to traffic, but U.S. officials said airlines had canceled flights into Saigon.

Reliable sources reported the Viet Cong had seized some American and Vietnamese police jeeps and were driving around, shooting from them.

Elsewhere, fierce fighting was reported at the airfield in the provincial capital of Vinh Long, 70 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. A U.S. Navy base for river patrol boats was evacuated and a company of U.S. 9th Infantry Division troops was flown in. About 400 enemy troops were reported inside the city.

Fighting also continued at My Tho, the delta's biggest city 80 miles south of Saigon. South Vietnamese troops reported killing 100 Viet Cong just outside the city.

On Pay Increases

Inflation Bite Big

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation took the biggest percentage bite in seven years from pay increases and other income gains won by Americans during 1967, the federal government reports.

The after-tax income average for every man, woman and child in the nation last year rose by $151 to $2,735, the government said today, but when adjusted to take in inflation's effect on prices the gain boiled down to only $74. When figured at 1958 price level, the per capita income would be $2,391.

The report came in the newest compilation of economic data prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee by the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

President Johnson's key argument in his fight for congressional approval of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal is that it would help stem inflation. But he has run into strong opposition on Capitol Hill and there were increasing indications the administration would settle for something less than a 10 per cent hike.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler recently referred to the tax bill "as proposed or in amended form" and it has been learned the phrase "amend" was used deliberately to show the administration isn't taking an all-or-nothing stand.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, said he talked in detail with administration officials before proposing a 6 per cent surcharge for individuals and 8 per cent for corporations.

more economic pump-priming during 1967 than in any year since World War II.

Preliminary figures indicate federal spending and receipts based on a national income accounts basis and spread over calendar 1967 instead of a fiscal year ran a deficit of $12.6 billion, the largest since World War II.

This is the accounting system economists consider the best guide to the impact of federal activity and policy on the economy.

When this type of accounting runs a deficit the government is stimulating the economy. When it runs a surplus federal activity has a depressing effect on the economy.

The deficit was the first for a calendar year since 1964 when it ran $3 billion into the red.

This account started into deficit during the third quarter of 1966 and the deficit ran at an annual rate of $14.7 billion by the second quarter of last year. It has declined since but only slightly.

Amended Bill

In a move directed against loan-shark operations by criminal syndicates, the bill was amended to provide federal penalties for violating state usury laws, with the penalties rising steeply to 25 years imprisonment in cases involving violence or conspiracy.

Attack Union Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — An angry crowd of 7,000 sanitation men demanding an immediate strike against the city attacked their union leader after an unruly City Hall demonstration today.

John J. DeLury, president of the United Sanitationmen's Association, told the rally that a strike vote would have to be taken by mail.

was becoming a critical problem for the city's 3 million residents and refugees from the suburbs.

Machine-gun fire rattled around the hospital, which was already crowded with casualties. The hospital's American staff was evacuated. Helicopters bringing emergency food supplies were fired on by Viet Cong snipers. Another hospital reported treating 300 civilian casualties in the last 48 hours.

U.S. troops repulsed an attack on a supply company depot near the dock area. On the main highway from Saigon to Bien Hoa, they recaptured a bridge and reported killing 11 Viet Cong.

Scattered sniper fire was reported during Thursday night at Tan Son Nhut airbase. The airport was open to traffic, but U.S. officials said airlines had canceled flights into Saigon.

Reliable sources reported the Viet Cong had seized some American and Vietnamese police jeeps and were driving around, shooting from them.

Elsewhere, fierce fighting was reported at the airfield in the provincial capital of Vinh Long, 70 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. A U.S. Navy base for river patrol boats was evacuated and a company of U.S. 9th Infantry Division troops was flown in. About 400 enemy troops were reported inside the city.

Fighting also continued at My Tho, the delta's biggest city 80 miles south of Saigon. South Vietnamese troops reported killing 100 Viet Cong just outside the city.

Many Attacks

Attacks were reported for the first time on Baria, 30 miles southeast of Saigon, and Phu Cuong, 20 miles north of the capital.

Communist troops were reported to have made their way also into Moc Hoa, a provincial capital 50 miles southwest of Saigon.

Reports from Dalat, the mountain resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon, said enemy forces still were in the town.

In the far north, U. S. spokesmen reported Quang Tri, 19 miles south of the demilitarized zone, was back in allied hands after two days of heavy fighting.

Killed in Crash

Distinctive Multi-Level With Everything Included

By JACK McLENEY

The real test of split-level planning is the functional quality of each level in a well integrated pattern in which four levels are used to provide full service individually, and at the same time coordinate the general layout into a home of comfort and charm. The "Modtreu" design is unique inasmuch as it permits construction on level ground as well as a lot with a natural slope to the rear as many do.

Focal point of today's multi-level plan is the main living area, composed of a large living room with sloping cathedral ceiling, fully open formal dining room and big, well lighted kitchen. The latter includes table space for daily meal service and a pleasant work area, consisting of wall oven, sink, dishwasher and cook-plate which the exterior is modern styled and makes use of exposed beams under a wide overhang with brick below to complete a pretty picture. The main living and bedroom is contained in 1950 square feet plus 328 square feet for the garage. While the plans call for the inclusion of a full basement below the living room, a crawl-space could be substituted, an economy factor worth considering. A combination of exterior materials is recommended for a distinctive finish.

Complete building plans, including form specifications are available by using the accompanying coupon.

GERANIUMS FROM SEED?

Ever grow geraniums from seed? Available is a new strain called Carefree, which can be sown in February, transplanted into 2 1/4 inch pots and set outdoors in June, and these will show color by the 4th of July!

This is a good record for geraniums started from seed. Why not try a few in your house or house or home greenhouse. Meanwhile, you can still take cuttings from your scraggly geraniums. Make cuttings from the tender tips, about 4 inches long. Insert them into a box of moist sand, or a mixture of sand-peat, with some perlite and vermiculite. Place a plastic sheet over the entire box after watering. You'll find that rooting takes place within 3 weeks or so. After that, transplant them into 3 inch pots. Grow them in the brightest window you have, and give them ample water. Geraniums like a uniform supply of moisture. There's no truth to the idea that they should be grown on the dry side.

FREE: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my bulletin, HOW TO GROW GERANIUMS INDOORS AND OUTDOORS. My guide is full of good tips for those of you who want to save money on geraniums. P. S. Please don't forget the self-addressed, stamped (6 cents!) envelope.

WATCH OUT FOR RABBIT! Mice, rats, rabbits and deer can be a pest to home gardeners. Best control for rabbits now is to put a mechanical barrier of wire around trees or shrubs. Dried blood, resin and alcohol on the stems do a pretty fair job repelling rabbits, but nothing beats a wire fence.

There's still time to place burlap screens around newly planted evergreens to keep out excessive winds and hot sun. Winds and sun cause rapid evaporation of water from the above ground parts of the plant and from the soil, literally blowing moisture away. Drying results in "winter burning" which becomes apparent in late spring.

WATERING AFRICAN VIOLETS: Why is it that violets often wilt after being watered? The answer lies in the potting soil being too heavy and this does not allow for good drainage. As a result, air is shut off from the roots and wilting sets in. Repot the plant, placing pebbles in the bottom of the pot, and use a good loose mixture, containing sand and peatmoss. Not all violets need the same amount of water even when grown under the same conditions.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Please tell me if a sucker coming up from the base of violet plant will cause any harm."

Answer: No, a sucker is nothing but a new shoot forming on the parent plant. However, if allowed to become too crowded, plants will not produce blooms they may fill the pot and re-las they have to compete for due flowering — the crowded light, air and moisture.

Outdoor Tenants

Outdoor living is becoming as important to the apartment or town house dweller today as to the homeowner. Tenants seek some secluded space — patio, balcony or terrace — where they can sunbathe, barbecue, or just enjoy the outdoors. Durable and decorative, indoor-outdoor flooring materials like ceramic tile make it easy to design such areas to blend with overall decor.

Grilles Snap Out

Snap-in grilles make window washing a snap. Attractive grille inserts are available with all styles of stock ponderosa pine windows. They snap into place over the window glass to give it a small-pane appearance. And they snap out to expose one easily-washed pane of glass.

Floors in Color

An exciting innovation in floors is oak in handsome decorator colors—pink, blue, yellow, green, even ebony and white. Colors are achieved with separate stain or colored penetrating seal, which don't hide the grain.

Know What To Do In Case Fire Strikes

When you talk to or read about people who have experienced a home fire, nearly always tales are told of delays in reporting the blaze in the municipal fire department, of confusion, of worthless items salvaged in the panic while family treasures go up in smoke.

Don't let this happen to you. Just a little planning will assure that your family acts with cool deliberation in a fire emergency and it's vital if you have senior citizens or young children under your roof. They are most often fire's victims.

Call a family meeting and explain that most serious home fires occur at night and therefore will probably be fairly far advanced before detection. This means that normal escape routes may be blocked, so figure out a second means of escaping from every bedroom.

Warn them not to open doors into halls before first checking them for heat. If a door is warm to your hand, keep it shut. That heat means the fire is nearby or that hot, deadly gas is right on the other side. Once the family is safely outside, your second job is to report the fire to your local fire department. Remember, your home phone may be knocked out, so you'll want to know the location of the nearest phone or municipal "pullbox."

Even if you catch a fire in its infancy, follow the same procedures, but in this case you may also want to tackle the blaze yourself.

For this you'll need the proper equipment. Have at least one Underwriters' Laboratories-approved carbon dioxide fire long hose attached to an out-of-doors water faucet. It's a good idea, too, to have galvanized steel pails — some filled with sand and others water — available in the garage, basement and attic.

Remember, never use water on a flammable liquid or electrical fire. Water will only spread a flammable liquid blaze and being a conductor of electricity is dangerous to use on an electrical fire. Use sand, car shut. That heat means the fire is nearby or that hot, deadly

A.K. Thermo Unit which is used to reduce hay fever. Members of the committee who have completed plans under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Raymond Armata and Mrs. Harold Finkle, are Mrs. Norma Burhans, orchestra; Mrs. Lawrence Siewers and Mrs. Herbert Gade, reservations and tickets; Mrs. G. Robert Numrich Jr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds Jr., publicity; Mrs. Peter O'Hara and Mrs. Fred Seeger, decorations; Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, treasurer. Tickets will be available at the door. As this event is the only fund-raising one, the Auxiliary has appealed to the community for assistance and attendance at the dance.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute
FOR THOSE WHO SOON MAY GIVE OR ATTEND A REHEARSAL DINNER
I receive so many questions about rehearsal dinners that it seems an article on the subject would be helpful. It is becoming more and more customary, though not obligatory, that the groom's family gives the rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding. The bride's parents traditionally are responsible for all the other events, so it is a thoughtful gesture if the groom's family takes this responsibility off their shoulders. Even when they come from another area, it can easily be arranged with a little assistance from the bride or her mother. The groom's mother writes or calls the latter when the wedding date is set, and asks her assistance in choosing and reserving a place to hold the party. They discuss how many guests there will be from each family, and the bride's mother recommends a restaurant or club she thinks would be appropriate, and makes a reservation. The groom's mother then writes or calls the manager and discusses the cost, the menu, the decorations, etc. When she arrives for the wedding—a day or two ahead of time, if possible—she goes to see the facilities, gives the manager a diagram of the seating plan and place cards and makes all final arrangements.

The guest list generally consists of the bride's party, the immediate families of the couple and a few very close friends—if space and finances permit. If possible, it is also kind to include out-of-town relatives who have arrived by that time. Otherwise they are left to their own devices, since the close family members will not be able to entertain them.

The rehearsal may be held in the late afternoon—at four or five o'clock and the dinner at seven or seven-thirty, in which case the bridal party would go to the rehearsal in their afternoon clothes—either formal or informal for the party. Or if the dinner immediately follows a late rehearsal the attendants may do the rehearsing in whatever they plan to wear for the evening.

The ideal seating arrangement is a U-shaped table with the bride and groom seated at the center of the base of the U, and the groom's mother and father (or whoever is host and hostess) at either end of the arms. The bride's mother sits on the groom's father's right, her father on the right of the groom's mother. The other members of the families are seated in any way which seems most congenial. Males and females should alternate insofar as possible, and young people are often seated near each other. The members of the bridal party sit at the base of the U, with the best man on the bride's right, and the maid of honor on the groom's left. Bridesmaids and ushers alternate men and women in any order the couple wish. Junior bridesmaids and ushers are included, but flower girls, ring bearers and pages need not be; they are too young for this sort of party.

The food may be as elaborate or as simple as the hostess chooses. Generally there are three courses served—soup, entrée, and dessert. However, if you wish a more elaborate meal, a fish course or a salad might be added.

If the families have no objection to alcoholic beverages, cocktails and champagne are usually served. Otherwise, a fruit punch and soft drinks are offered instead. Toasts are offered during dinner, generally after the guests finish the main course. Or they may be given during or after dessert. The host gives the first toast, welcoming his guests, and telling of his delight in the coming event. This is usually followed by a rash of toasts from members of either family, and the ushers, too.

The bride and groom may give the attendants their gifts at this time, and the ushers and bridesmaids' presents to the couple may be presented too.

For the bridal attendants and relatives who have no early-morning responsibilities, the rehearsal dinner may be a gay affair lasting until the "wee" small hours. But the parents of the bride and the couple themselves leave early to attempt to get a good night's sleep before the wedding day. Once they depart, the party carries on as any ordinary party. The groom's parents, too, may leave, telling the young people to stay on and enjoy themselves. But if it is just a dinner with no music or entertainment, the rest of the party leaves at the same time.

World Day of Prayer Slated for March

On World Day of Prayer, March 1, 1968, world worshippers will follow a prayer service written by the chairman of the Asian Church Women's Conference.

She is Mrs. Rathie Selvaratnam of Ceylon, well-known in church circles in the United States for she has attended many church gatherings in this country as well as in Africa and other parts of Asia.

In the preparation of this service she drew on resources common to the Christian church in many parts of the world but particularly those from her native Asia. A fellow Ceylonese, D. T. Niles, executive of the East Asia Conference of Churches, put words to a Thai-land melody which forms one of the hymns in the service.

The local service will take place at 7:30 p.m. at the Federated Church in Kerhonkson.

There will be a junior meditation for the children and the choir will participate. Prior to the service an All-Day Prayer Vigil will be conducted from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Members and friends of the Federated Church are reminded to sign up for their half-hour portion of the Vigil.

Four other Asian women played an important role in preparation for the day, a Philippine University teacher now studying for a higher degree, an Indian social scientist, a Chinese psychologist, and a Japanese professor of Christian education. They wrote special prayers and meditation for each day of the month preceding the World Day of Prayer. The booklet is titled: "Bear One Another's Burdens," taken from Galatians 6:2. This theme phrase was chosen as the theme of World Day of Prayer.

During the 80 years since its beginning, World Day of Prayer has had as its main purpose prayer and giving for the worldwide mission of the church. Men and women join together across denominational, racial, national, and cultural boundaries to pray for the needs of the world and to make an offering for the Church's mission around the globe.

The very first service opens at dawn in the tropical South Sea Island of Tonga near the International Date Line. Hour by hour petition succeeds petition forming a global prayer chain as the sun appears in other lands, until it finally sinks at the end of the day behind an ice-bound island in the far northern Bering Sea.

Offerings on this World Day of Prayer will go to many worthy projects in America as well as in other lands. Included will be scholarships for training women in Christian broadcast-colleges in Cameroon, India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Guatemala.

The International Student Service will also be aided, as will the literacy work in eighteen countries carried out by the Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of Churches.

In America, agricultural migrants will be helped, as well as Indian-Americans, rural pastors, vacation church schools, and other Christian programs under the general direction of the National Council of Churches, of which Church Women United is a part.

World Day of Prayer observances in hundreds of communities are planned by the 2,300 units of Church Women United across the United States.

Woodstock Kitchens Yield Recipes For Benefit of March of Dimes

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

A cheerful looking yellow and pink cookbook is reaping dividends for the March of Dimes these days. It's called WOODSTOCK, Recollection by Recipe. Since its publication in 1967, approximately 12,000 copies have been sold with all profits earmarked for the March of Dimes. It is really more than just a cookbook—it is a tribute to Woodstock. It contains memories of the past when Woodstock was a woodland haven for artists, musicians and writers, up to the present-day Woodstock where, according to J. L. Gaede, editor of the book, "to be a part of Woodstock bestows a heritage of courage to stand apart and be oneself."

A great many of Woodstock's leading lights contributed their talents to this publication whether in the literary vein, pen and ink sketches, old photographs or time honored recipes. Natalie P. Earnest served as associate editor while various sections of the soft covered cookbook were put in charge of Katrina S. Fischer, Gloria Jennings, Fritz Striebel, Jane Dow Bromberg, Margo Cramer Taylor, Margo Balmer and Clara Leavy. Quite a few recipes, however, couldn't make the book because of that age-old publisher's lament—space. We think they're too good to be put aside so we've decided to share them with everybody.

U.S. Army Nurse Corps Celebrates 67th Anniversary

Announcement was made today by the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 640 Broadway, Kingston, of the 67th anniversary of the U. S. Army Nurse Corps. Established on February 2, 1901 as part of the Army Medical Service, the Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of the women's services of the Armed Forces. Composed entirely of women throughout most of its history, the Corps introduced an innovation in 1955 when it began accepting qualified male nurses. Today, more than 20 per cent of the nurses serving on active duty are men. Throughout its history, its members have made significant and often courageous contributions to our Nation and humanity. They have pursued their humanitarian work during two world wars, the Korean conflict, and now, in Vietnam, many having been decorated for their bravery and distinguished service, including three who have been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism during combat. Today, over 500 Army nurses are serving in Vietnam. They live and work in areas not marked by the generally well-defined battle lines of past wars. There is an environment shared with the soldiers they serve in the face of an enemy as unrecognizable as the terrain which defies identification as a "front." Even though the hardships and sacrifices are great in Vietnam, applications from nurses continue their nursing careers as civilians. Requirements for an officer's commission in the Army Nurse Corps include: citizenship of the U.S. or admission into the country as permanent residence; between 20-35 years of age if without prior military service; graduation from a school of nursing which offers either a diploma or baccalaureate degree program in nursing accredited by the National League for Nursing and/or approval by the Department of the Army; registered to practice nursing in one state of the U.S. or in Puerto Rico; excellent personal, moral and scholastic references. The Army permits women officers to be married to marry while in the military service. Women officers are not appointed or retained who have dependents under 18 years of age. Single status is required for participation in any of the student financial assistance programs in the case of women; this policy is not applicable to men. Listed among the benefits for individuals without prior service are: free medical and dental care; paid vacation time of 30 days per year; shopping privileges at military exchanges and commissaries. The monthly salary for 2nd Lt. is $454.08; 1st Lt., $516.48, which includes basic pay, quarters allowance and food. As a result of the critical need for additional nurses, the Army Surgeon General recently announced an increase in the number of scholarships available to young men and women. There are now 150 scholarships open to both civilians and military for the 1968-69 school year. The scholarship program is a joint venture of the new Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing and the University of Maryland. Young men and women selected to receive scholarships will be permitted to attend the accredited college or university of their choice during the first two years of study. During their junior and senior years, they will be enrolled at the University of Maryland where they will take their academic courses, while clinical training will be provided at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C. This scholarship program is only one of the several assistance programs available through the Army Nurse Corps. There are other programs open to registered nurses and students now enrolled in nursing schools. For more detailed information on all Army Nurse Programs, contact Sgt. Edward Keene at 640 Broadway, Kingston. Invalid Sick Room Supplies Wheel Chairs Crutches, Hospital Beds FOR SALE or FOR RENT Gov. Clinton Pharmacy 236 Clinton Ave. FE 1-1800

Democratic Club Selects Delegates To Attend Conference in Albany

At the Ulster County Women's Democratic Club meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 23, at the YWCA, arrangements were made to send the president of the club, Mrs. Marie Gorsline, and the vice-chairman of the Democratic Party, Mrs. Rose Hogan, to the conference to be held at the Thruway Motel in Albany on February 25 and 26. The theme of the conference, which is sponsored by the Woman's Division Democratic State Committee, is "The Mobilization of Opinions." Many club members are planning to attend. A membership drive was planned to be held in early spring. After the meeting a surprise bridal shower was given in honor of the club secretary, Mrs. Tom Johnson, who is the former Miss Peggy Rheil of Kingston.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Caroline Mac Donald and Mrs. Madeline Cole. The next meeting will be held on February 27, at 8 p. m. at the YWCA.

Miss Zimmermann Receives Degree

Miss Annemarie D. Zimmermann, daughter of Mrs. Mariann Zimmermann, Society of Brothers, Rifton, is among the 38 students who have completed degree requirements in January at State University Agricultural and Technical College, Cobleskill, and has left the campus. Some students will take positions in their major field area, others will continue for an advanced degree at another college, and some young men will enter military service.

service. Miss Zimmermann's major field was nursery education and she was active in orchestra and as a student youth volunteer. Because there will be no formal commencement ceremony in January, each graduate is invited to participate in the June 8th commencement. Dr. and Mrs. Walton Brown entertained the graduating seniors at a reception and dinner in the college dining hall previous to their final examinations.

The Doctor Says

New Drug Holds Promise: Cuts Cholesterol Level

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD
Although your arteries start to harden the day you are born, the rate at which they do so varies in different persons. Because this rate is linked to the concentration in your blood of cholesterol, triglycerides and phospholipids—all normal and essential constituents of your blood—these concentrations have been the subject of intensive study. The latest and most encouraging of these comes from the Duke University Medical Center. A group of 65 persons was studied—36 had definite evidence of arteriosclerosis and 29 had no such evidence but did have a high cholesterol level. All were given cholestyramine, an ion-exchange resin, in water over a period of 18 months. The average drop in cholesterol level was 43 per cent, in triglyceride 55 per cent and in phospholipids 25 per cent.

The drug, which has few, if any, side effects and can be taken regularly for prolonged periods, has been approved for the treatment of certain liver diseases but its use in lowering the level of blood lipids is still considered experimental. It works by combining with bile acids in the intestines and preventing their reabsorption into the blood. The body must, therefore, use cholesterol from the blood to manufacture more bile acids. By reducing the absorption of fat from the intestines the drug also favors weight reduction. Of the 36 persons with arteriosclerosis, 32 noted relief from their symptoms. Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

U.S. Army Nurse Corps Celebrates 67th Anniversary

Announcement was made today by the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 640 Broadway, Kingston, of the 67th anniversary of the U. S. Army Nurse Corps.

Established on February 2, 1901 as part of the Army Medical Service, the Army Nurse Corps is the oldest of the women's services of the Armed Forces.

Composed entirely of women throughout most of its history, the Corps introduced an innovation in 1955 when it began accepting qualified male nurses. Today, more than 20 per cent of the nurses serving on active duty are men.

Theirs is an environment shared with the soldiers they serve in the face of an enemy as unrecognizable as the terrain which defies identification as a "front."

Even though the hardships and sacrifices are great in Vietnam, applications from nurses on active duty continue at a high level for this difficult mission.

The need for additional Army nurses continues to be urgent. One factor which contributes to this need is the turnover occasioned by marriage. Although some nurses who marry while in uniform remain on active duty to be near their servicemen husbands, many elect to continue their nursing careers as civilians.

Requirements for an officer's commission in the Army Nurse Corps includes: citizenship of the U.S. or admission into the country as permanent residence; between 20-35 years of age if without prior military service; graduation from a school of nursing which offers either a diploma or baccalaureate degree program in nursing accredited by the National League for Nursing and/or approval by the Department of the Army; registered to practice nursing in one state of the U.S. or in Puerto Rico; excellent personal, moral and scholastic references. The Army permits women officers to be married or to marry while in the military service. Women officers are not appointed or retained who have dependents under 18 years of age. Single status is required for participation in any of the student financial assistance programs in the case of women; this policy is not applicable to men.

Listed among the benefits for individuals without prior service are: free medical and dental care; paid vacation time of 30 days per year; shopping privileges at military exchanges and commissaries. The monthly salary for 2nd/Lt. is $454.08; 1st/Lt., $516.48, which includes basic pay, quarters allowance and food.

As a result of the critical need for additional nurses, the Army Surgeon General recently announced an increase in the number of scholarships available to young men and women. There are now 150 scholarships open to both civilians and military for the 1968-69 school year. The scholarship program is a joint venture of the new Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing and the University of Maryland. Young men and women selected to receive scholarships will be permitted to attend the accredited college or university of their choice during the first two years of study. During their junior and senior years, they will be enrolled at the University of Maryland where they will take their academic courses, while clinical training will be provided at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

This scholarship program is only one of the several assistance programs available

Plan Hymn Sing

The Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association will sponsor a hymn sing this coming Saturday at the Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine at 7:30 p. m.

Many of the churches will be presenting special numbers in song.

Come and join us in singing the Old Gospel songs.

Democratic Club Selects Delegates To Attend Conference in Albany

At the Ulster County Women's Democratic Club meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 23, at the YWCA, arrangements were made to send the president of the club, Mrs. Marie Gorsline, and the vice-chairman of the Democratic Party, Mrs. Rose Hogan, to the conference to be held at the Thruway Motel in Albany on February 25 and 26. The theme of the conference, which is sponsored by the Woman's Division Democratic State Committee, is "The Mobilization of Opinions." Many club members are planning to attend.

A membership drive was planned to be held in early spring. After the meeting a surprise bridal shower was given in honor of the club secretary, Mrs. Tom Johnson, who is the former Miss Peggy Rheil of Kingston.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Caroline Mac Donald and Mrs. Madeline Cole.

The next meeting will be held on February 27, at 8 p. m. at the YWCA.

Miss Zimmermann Receives Degree

Miss Annemarie D. Zimmermann, daughter of Mrs. Marianne Zimmermann, Society of Brothers, Rifton, is among the 38 students who have completed degree requirements in January at State University Agricultural and Technical College, Cobleskill, and has left the campus. Some students will take positions in their major field area, others will continue for an advanced degree at another college, and some young men will enter military service.

Miss Zimmermann's major field was nursery education and she was active in orchestra and as a student youth volunteer.

Because there will be no formal commencement ceremony in January, each graduate is invited to participate in the June 8th commencement. Dr. and Mrs. Walton Brown entertained the graduating seniors at a reception and dinner in the college dining hall previous to their final examinations.

The Doctor Says

New Drug Holds Promise; Cuts Cholesterol Level

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD
Although your arteries start to harden the day you are born, the rate at which they do so varies in different persons. Because this rate is linked to the concentration in your blood of cholesterol, triglycerides and phospholipids—all normal and essential constituents of your blood—these concentrations have been the subject of intensive study. The latest and most encouraging of these comes from the Duke University Medical Center.

The drug, which has few, if any, side effects and can be taken regularly for prolonged periods, has been approved for the treatment of certain liver diseases but its use in lowering the level of blood lipids is still considered experimental. It works by combining with bile acids in the intestines and preventing their reabsorption into the blood. The body must, therefore, use cholesterol from the blood to manufacture more bile acids. By reducing the absorption of fat from the intestines the drug also favors weight reduction.

Of the 36 persons with arteriosclerosis, 32 noted relief from their symptoms.

A group of 65 persons was studied—36 had definite evidence of arteriosclerosis and 29 had no such evidence but did have a high cholesterol level. All were given cholestyramine, an ion-exchange resin, in water over a period of 18 months. The average drop in cholesterol level was 43 per cent, in triglyceride 55 per cent and in phospholipids 25 per cent.

INSTALLED — Joseph Flowers, seated right, was installed as president of Ulster County Shrine Club at recent ceremonies. With him is Charles Fiester of Catskill, illustrious potentate of Cyprus Temple. Rear (L) are Donald Schoonmaker Jr., first vice president and Otto Scherrieble, treasurer. Other Shrine officers include Larry Bogert, secretary and Adolph Heckerroth, second vice president.

Shrine Slate Is Headed by Joseph Flowers

Ulster County Shrine Club recently held its installation dinner at the Hedges in West Park.

Officiating was Donald Glindmyer of Scotia, chief rabban of Cyprus Temple.

Those installed were Joseph Flowers, president; Donald Schoonmaker Jr., first vice president; Adolph Heckerroth, second vice president; Larry Bogert, secretary and Otto Scherrieble, treasurer. Executive committee members include Milton Makowsky, Frank Kolts and Rudy Turk who was in charge of arrangements.

The reception for Charles E. Fiester of Catskill, illustrious potentate of Cyprus Temple attracted one of the largest gatherings of nobles and their ladies ever in this area in recent years. Fiester in his remarks after dinner thanked the membership for its continued support of the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children in Springfield, Mass., and noted that the Pete Williams Show and Harvest Ball last fall would permit the club to make a substantial gift to the nearest hospital. He also stressed the forthcoming Shrine Circus to be held in Albany on March 2 and 3 and asked every noble present to see that the children of Ulster County were given an opportunity to attend the morning performance Saturday, March 2.

Maurice the Great, one of the leading magicians of the east who has been seen frequently on the N. Y. TV channels entertained after dinner. A local dance team known as Monashsky and Lord performed intricate routines to the rhythmic music of Johnny Knapp's Orchestra.

Noble David Gruber, who is a member of the Cyprus Temple Band has received word that a young boy from Ulster County will be examined and interviewed at the Springfield Hospital Feb. 11 for correction of a severe spinal curvature. The Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children only accepts for treatment those patients whose parents cannot afford to pay for the required operations. The Springfield Unit has presently 60 beds in use so there is some waiting period before admission can be gained for those who qualify.

Any group interested in attending the children's performance of the Shrine Circus on March 2 in the Scotland Avenue Armory, Albany, may contact one of the officers or write to Box 462, Kingston, for free tickets.

Europeans Elated Over Film Industry

BY DONALD M. MCNICOLL
LONDON (AP) — A breezy

air of optimism pervades the bustling European film industry these days. It is in marked contrast to the jitters some people in Hollywood seem to be suffering.

Charlton Heston, president of the U.S. Screen Actors Guild, and other screen union officials complained to a U.S. Senate group recently that too many American films are made overseas and this "runaway" trend could kill the U.S. domestic film industry.

In London recently, Heston said the chief reason for American production in Europe "and particularly in Britain is that it costs less money to make pictures in this part of the world than it does in Hollywood."

European sources see little indication of any real change in the trend to overseas production.

"The business is international now, not purely American, purely British, purely French or Spanish or Italian," said one authority in London with many years of experience in the industry.

"Heston himself has made a great many films outside the United States," he added.

A big factor in the thinking of U.S. film makers is the increased sophistication of audiences. Americans, especially, are considered enthusiasts for exotic as well as authentic settings, stemming from their wide travels in recent decades.

Film financing also has an international aspect. Even if a film is directly American-financed, chances are that the cash will come from a European bank or a European branch of an American bank, in the currency of the country where the money is to be spent.

But U.S. dollars are used, too. One qualified London source estimated that, despite President Johnson's worries over the dollar drain, American companies this year will provide $20 million in U.S. currency for film productions in Britain.

One informed Paris estimate is that at most only 15 of the films now being made in Britain are purely American—meaning American money, American director, American stars and American story. In Britain, if the labor costs are 75 per cent British and the company making the film is registered in Britain, a film qualifies for what is called "Eady money." The name comes from Britain, the civil servant who dreamed up the idea of a levy on box-office receipts to foster film-making in Britain. Now, as often as not, "Eady money" finds its way into American pockets, but it does encourage the use of British actors and technicians. Little wonder it is difficult to get a shooting date in studios in Britain.

'Hatful of Rain' Opens in Kingston

"It was slow going in the first scene of Michael V. Gazzo's dramatic production but as soon as Samuel Tesoriero came on stage, action was in the mood of crescendo all the way to the conclusion." This was "after the show" comment about the Coach House production of A Hatful of Rain which opened a three night stand at the George Washington School auditorium last night.

The Michael V. Gazzo drama about an ex GI who becomes "hooked" on drugs is powerful and meaningful and received artful treatment at the hands of Coach House and its director Murray Rivette. Bill Skilling, permanent director for the little theatre group, was sitting this one out because of a heavy activities schedule and illness.

Cast Credits

Tesoriero, in the role of Polo Pope, was credited with "best acting" and well deserved applause went to Eloise Gardner (Celia Pope) and Jerry Brennan (Johnny Pope).

The Hoods, led by Pat Bottino, were very convincing and Tony DePaola (Chuch) made a very impressive theatre debut.

Comic relief was amply provided by Roger School (Apples) while Tom Rieley did a very creditable job as the father. Rieley has come a long way since his first appearance on Coach House boards.

Betty Madonna (Putski) made an important contribution to this production even though the part was a small one.

This isn't the first time a member of Coach House has taken on the chore of directing. The production meets theatre standards and Rivette is to be congratulated. Rivette has been a member of Coach House Players for three years. He has the distinction of being the first member of the organization to direct a major production. With a background of acting, writing and directing, he is well qualified for the job. Rivette is employed by IBM in Poughkeepsie as a technical writer.

Next: Musical

"Hatful of Rain" opened in 1955 at the Lyceum Theatre in New York. Among those in the cast were Ben Gazzara, Shelley Winters and Anthony Franciosa. A movie version was made by 20th Century-Fox with Anthony Franciosa recreating the role of Polo. The play's author Gazzo, wrote the screenplay. A TV version has been taped with Sandy Dennis starred and is scheduled to be given on ABC on February 21.

The Lerner and Loewe musical "Paint Your Wagon" is next for Coach House Players. It will be given on May 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18 under the direction of Bill Skilling.

Kay Fletcher of Coach House has informed us that readings for the musical have been scheduled for February 7 and 8 at Coach House on Augusta Street beginning at 8 p. m.

Anyone interested in theatre, whether it be on stage, backstage or in the wings, should participate.

Committee Chairmen

Serving as standing committee chairman for last night's production were: Harry Sommer, production manager; Ralph Harper, consultant; Stephan Krosner, stage manager; Barbara Seissler, special assistant; Franci Gardner, electrician.

Helen Hodges, stage setting and properties; Cordelia Feltman, costumes; Barbara Seissler, make-up; Kay Fletcher, publicity; William Hawk, play program; Margaret Bellert, ushers; Pat and Rae Bottino, associate membership; and Hilda Krum, single tickets.

'Hatful of Rain' Opens in Kingston

"It was slow going in the first scene of Michael V. Gazzo's dramatic production but as soon as Samuel Tesoriero came on stage, action was in the mood of crescendo all the way to the conclusion." This was "after the show" comment about the Coach House production of A Hatful of Rain which opened a three night stand at the George Washington School auditorium last night.

The Michael V. Gazzo drama about an ex GI who becomes "hooked" on drugs is powerful and meaningful and received artful treatment at the hands of Coach House and its director Murray Rivette. Bill Skilling, permanent director for the little theatre group, was sitting this one out because of a heavy activities schedule and illness.

Cast Credits

Tesoriero, in the role of Polo Pope, was credited with "best acting" and well deserved applause went to Eloise Gardiner (Celia Pope) and Jerry Brennan (Johnny Pope).

The Hoods, led by Pat Bottino, were very convincing and Tony DePaola (Chuch) made a very impressive theatre debut. Comic relief was amply provided by Roger School (Apples) while Tom Rieley did a very credible job as the father. Rieley has come a long way since his first appearance on Coach House boards.

Betty Madonna (Putski) made an important contribution to this production even though the part was a small one.

This isn't the first time a member of Coach House has taken on the chore of directing. The production meets theatre standards and Rivette is to be congratulated. Rivette has been a member of Coach House Players for three years. He has the distinction of being the first member of the organization to direct a major production. With a background of acting, writing for and directing, he is well qualified for the job. Rivette is employed by IBM in Poughkeepsie as a technical writer.

Next: Musical

"Hatful of Rain" opened in 1955 at the Lyceum Theatre in New York. Among those in the cast were Ben Gazzara, Shelley Winters and Anthony Franciosa. A movie version was made by 20th Century-Fox with Anthony Franciosa recreating the role of Polo. The play's author Gazzo, wrote the screenplay. A TV version has been taped with Sandy Dennis starred and is scheduled to be given on ABC on February 21.

The Lerner and Loewe musical "Paint Your Wagon" is next for Coach House Players. It will be given on May 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18 under the direction of Bill Skilling.

has informed us that readings for the musical have been scheduled for February 7 and 8 at Coach House on Augusta Street beginning at 8 p.m. Anyone interested in theatre, whether it be on stage, backstage or in the wings, should participate.

Committee Chairman

Serving as standing committee chairman for last night's production were: Harry Sommer, production manager; Ralph Harper, consultant; Stephen Krosner, stage manager; Barbara Seissler, special assistant; Francis Gardner, electrician.

Helen Hodges, stage setting and properties; Cordelia Feltman, costumes; Barbara Seissler, make-up; Kay Fletcher, publicity; William Hawk, play program; Margaret Mellert, ushers; Pat and Rae Bottino, associate membership; and Hilda Krum, single tickets.

WINE FLOWS — French wine flows in the gutter Thursday as Joe Carroll, owner of the Crock of Gold, an Irish pub, stages a modern-day "Boston Tea Party" designed to condemn French wines and the policies of President Charles de Gaulle. The total French wine stock of the restaurant about 100 gallons — was reportedly dumped, Carroll, who said he was asking other restaurateurs around the country to join in the boycott of French wines. ## Johnson, Meany Launch The Pro-Democrat Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and AFL-CIO President George Meany launched today a political road show aimed at lining up the 14 million-member labor organization behind the Democratic ticket.

Back-Patting Rapport

They were in back-patting rapport on Vietnam and a wide sweep of domestic programs and problems.

And they were in total agreement Congress should enact job and housing programs, additional education and health measures and, as Johnson put it, "at the same time protect freedom."

Johnson dismissed the idea that domestic problems can't be tackled while the Vietnam conflict rages.

"It's just the same as saying you can take care of one child and you can't take care of the other," he said.

This was in a conversation filmed at the White House Jan. 15, for a premier Saturday in New Orleans and showings from then on at union meetings and regional sessions of labor's Committee on Political Education.

Veteran political rail birds could recall no parallel to the movie.

In it, Johnson and Meany spent considerable time on mutual compliments without ever questioning that the President is going to run for another term and that Meany is going all the way with LBJ on both foreign and domestic policy.

In a bit of political whip cracking at the end, Meany said elections are won back home by leaders of the labor movement and they should start now getting registration drives under way and collecting cash for COPE.

The President nodded appreciatively to labor, mothers and teachers for giving a helping hand with "a massive educational measure" supplemented

Water Curbs Hold

New Paltz Back on Aqueduct Line

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

New Paltz water problems eased somewhat Thursday as the village system returned to the New York City aqueduct line as its main source of supply, but usage restrictions are still in force due to the near critical storage level.

Shortage Not Problem

The problem is not the shortage of supply but the need for getting the supply to the storage tank before consumer use pulls the storage level down to 30 feet, the critical level.

The storage tank on the Ohioville Road between Highland and New Paltz has a capacity of 400,000 gallons. When full the level of the water is at 65 feet.

At noon Thursday Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of Ulster County Health Department, said the water level in the storage tank was at 47 feet and the village was "holding its own."

The village has been using New York City's aqueduct line as a source of supply rather than its own mountain reservoir which has only a 10-day supply.

The New Paltz water department faced another water crisis when the New York City Water Department announced that they would have to shut down the aqueduct line Monday afternoon to enable a contractor to take measurements and specifications for an improvement project.

This forced New Paltz to switch over to its own water source at the mountain reservoir. The low pressure problem is the result of slow recovery of water levels in the storage tank which is fed by an eight-

County Aid Totals 98Gs

Ulster County's share of federal aid for 1967 was $98,282, so for highway planning and construction, veteran's benefits and social security payments, the Congressman explained.

The figure includes funds in the form of loans and grants, appropriations and other operating expenses for federal agen-

The total received by the entire district was $272,947,510.

Water Curbs Hold

New Paltz Back on Aqueduct Line

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

New Paltz water problems eased somewhat Thursday as the village system returned to the New York City aqueduct line as its main source of supply, but usage restrictions are still in force due to the near critical storage level.

Shortage Not Problem

The problem is not the shortage of supply but the need for getting the supply to the storage tank before consumer use pulls the storage level down to 30 feet, the critical level.

The storage tank on the Ohioville Road between Highland and New Paltz has a capacity of 400,000 gallons. When full the level of the water is at 65 feet.

At noon Thursday Harry F. Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of Ulster County Health Department, said the water level in the storage tank was at 47 feet and the village was "holding its own."

The village has been using New York City's aqueduct line as a source of supply rather than its own mountain reservoir which has only a 10-day supply.

The New Paltz water department faced another water crisis when the New York City Water Department announced that they would have to shut down the aqueduct line Monday afternoon to enable a contractor to take measurements and specifications for an improvement project.

This forced New Paltz to switch over to its own water source at the mountain reservoir. The low pressure problem is the result of slow recovery of water levels in the storage tank which is fed by an eight-

Johnson, Meany Launch The Pro-Democrat Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and AFL-CIO President George Meany launched today a political road show aimed at lining up the 14 million-member labor organization behind the Democratic ticket.

Back-Patting Rapport

They were in back-patting rapport on Vietnam and a wide sweep of domestic programs and problems.

And they were in total agreement Congress should enact job and housing programs, additional education and health measures and, as Johnson put it, "at the same time protect freedom."

Johnson dismissed the idea that domestic problems can't be tackled while the Vietnam conflict rages.

"It's just the same as saying you can take care of one child and you can't take care of the other," he said.

This was in a conversation filmed at the White House Jan. 15, for a premier Saturday in New Orleans and showings from then on at union meetings and regional sessions of labor's Committee on Political Education.

Veteran political rail birds could recall no parallel to the movie.

In it, Johnson and Meany spent considerable time on mutual compliments without ever questioning that the President is going to run for another term and that Meany is going all the way with LBJ on both foreign and domestic policy.

In a bit of political whip cracking at the end, Meany said elections are won back home by leaders of the labor movement and they should start now getting registration drives underway and collecting cash for COPE.

The President nodded appreciatively to labor, mothers and teachers for giving a helping hand with "a massive educational measure" supplemented by more than 20 other education bills.

A Thank You to Union

He also thanked the AFL-CIO for helping to pass the medicare and medicaid bills.

Johnson had 17 kind words for businessmen.

"I am happy to say that the businessmen generally have tried to listen and to be cooperative," the President said.

Meany assured the President that "we are convinced that you are on the right track" in Vietnam. Johnson agreed with him that America is big enough to battle for freedom and independence there while improving the home front.

"I am the father of two daughters," the President said. "When I hear this argument that we can't protect freedom in Europe, in Asia, or in our own hemisphere and still meet our domestic problems, I think it is a phony argument."

"It is just like saying that I can't take care of Luci because I have Lynda Bird. We have to take care of both of them and we have to meet them head on."

UCCC Rebounds to Crush Allegheny, 116-73

By CHRIS GEHMAN
WILKES BARRE, Pa.—Here we are — the Ulster County Community College basketball squad and I—marooned in the coal mine regions of Pennsylvania this 2 a. m. Friday, Feb. 2.

But nobody is complaining, certainly not the rebounding Senators who regained a full measure of prestige last night by crushing Allegheny College, 116-73, in a game played in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Joe Uhl, limited to 19 points in the Robert Morris debacle the night before, bounced back with a spectacular 44-point performance in 35 minutes of action.

Uhl's 31 point second half led UCCC's 77 point blitz that swept Allegheny off the floor after a reasonably close 39-23 halftime score. It was the 18th win in 20 starts for Coach Mike Perry's charges who go against Orange CC in a Mid-Hudson Conference contest Tuesday.

That Plane Trip
Before we get into the gory

details of the basketball, let us tell you about our plane trip. A happy band of Senators and I boarded a Jet Master at Pittsburgh about 11 p. m. Thursday. Excitement was high. The slightly stained UCCC escutcheon was shining brighter and it was a mood of conquest that pervaded the sleek jetliner.

The plane arrived over Newark Airport some time around 1 a. m., nobody knows for sure, then came the announcement from the flight captain. He was sorry, the airport was fogged in. We circled for about a half hour, then came a second announcement. We were being shunted back to Wilkes-Barre (of all places). We made it safely at the Wilkes-Barre airport and by 2 a. m. were safely secured and quartered.

Return Today
The word was we would depart for Newark about 10 a. m. today.

The game itself was all UCCC except for a few minutes in the first half. Allegheny hit first then Ulster ran off 11 straight for a 11-2 lead. When Allegheny closed to 19-16, Bill Boines and Leon Hanna ripped successive baskets and UCCC moved to a 39-23 halftime lead.

UCCC went into a tight 1-2-2 press in the second half forcing Allegheny into numerous turnovers, while Uhl was running wild.

Allegheny was guilty of 43 turnovers, Ulster only 11 and the locals held a 49-31 edge in rebounds.

Obviously distressed by

UCCC's poor second half against Robert Morris the night before, Coach Perry made three lineup changes. He benched Co-Captain Rod Chando, Frank Roselli and Leon Hanna and started Bill Boines, Bill Zilliox and Stan Henderson along with Uhl and Mike Derrenbacher.

Boines Scores 16
Boines contributed 16 points and led with 12 rebounds in his last Ulster appearance. Academics have grounded him for the second semester. Bill Zilliox added 15.

Roselli, the new benedict, saw action for less than five minutes. Only about 200 persons saw the contest in the Carrick High school gym and gave Uhl a standing ovation when he was lifted by Coach Perry with 5 minutes left to play.

The officiating was a sharp improvement over the night before. The Allegheny Cougars now 12-5 for the season, were tough in the first half but when Coach Perry switched defensive tactics in the second half the game degenerated into a rout.

The score:

Uster CCC (116)	Allegheny (73)

Burden Too Much for One Man

Lombardi Steps Down as Packer Coach

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, the Brooklyn-born miracle man who built football's mightiest dynasty in this small city on Green Bay, has retired to the executive suite after nine smash seasons as Packer head coach.

From now on, Lombardi, 54, will be only the general manager of the team he coached to five National Football League titles in those years. The new head coach will be Phil Bengtson.

son, 56, the designer of the Packers' stifling defenses.

It was the first time Lombardi, absolute ruler of Green Bay football as coach and general manager, ever delegated a major share of his authority.

Sees No Interference
Bengtson was sure Lombardi would not interfere with the running of the team.

"Our relationship has been very close and there's been a very real understanding between us as long as we've been together," Bengtson said.

"I realize I will be succeeding a remarkable man as coach of a team with a record probably unequalled in the history of football," Bengtson said. "I hope we will be able to continue the winning tradition of the Packers."

The one-time Minnesota star, who admitted having turned down previous head coaching offers, spoke immediately after Lombardi told Packer directors and newsmen of his decision Thursday night.

Long Deliberation
He had made up his mind, Lombardi said, "only after a great deal of thought and

"Because of the nature and growth of the business and the corporate structure of the Packers, I believe it is impractical for me to try to do both jobs. I feel I must relinquish one of them," he said.

Lombardi's emotion showed only momentarily during his three-minute talk. When it was over, tears were noticeable in his eyes.

The indomitable Lombardi, the only man ever to coach a team to three straight titles since the NFL adopted the playoff system in 1933, said he was flattered by the number of people who attended his news conference and dinner. "This started out as a routine press release, believe me," he said to the gathering of more than 100 persons.

Nine Winning Seasons
Lombardi, who took over a team that had won only one game in 1958 and turned it into a contender almost overnight and a champion within three years, leaves after nine straight winning seasons.

His Packer teams won 89 regular season games, lost only 29 and tied four. The Packers captured six Western Conference tities as well as five league titles and for the past two seasons have won world titles by beating the American Football League champions in the Super Bowl.

Bengtson, believed close to Lombardi in football outlook, said he planned no major departures from traditional Packer patterns.

Packer players don't expect any changes either, Bengtson indicated he would, at least for the time being, continue to run the defense. For the past nine seasons he has called all the Packer defensive signals.

SITZ-MARKS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Having survived major weather catastrophes and conflicting Eastern schedules, it is safe to say that Rosendale has "arrived" as an Eastern ski jumping center.

Even the erudite Michael Strauss of the New York Times described last weekend's Class A field at Mt. Joppenbergh as "the best of the season."

Aside from the never ending battle with the elements, the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club has had to claw and scratch for dates not in conflict with those at Bear Mountain, Salisbury and other centers.

"Right now our 70-meter hill at Joppenbergh is on a par with Bear Mountain and Salisbury," says Bill Curran with understandable pride.

"Roy Sherwood, Pete Mikkelsen all raved about the conditions there last weekend and said they would be back," he added. "When you get that kind of entry you've got it made."

An interesting sidelight on Sherwood, the veteran ex-Olympian. Until this year he resisted all blandishments from Curran, a fellow member on the Eastern Ski Jumping Committee, to come to Rosendale. When he did accept an invitation this year, he demanded the right to change his mind if hill conditions did not meet his specifications. Joppenbergh satisfied Sherwood's demanding conditions even though the Salisbury vet wasn't too impressed with leaps of 177 and 184 feet.

Per Coucheron, the Norwegian-born Dartmouth student, was a double winner, following an earlier triumph at Bear Mountain. Pete Mikkelsen, the US Air Force sky raider from Wisconsin, hit a pair of 204s. Coucheron soared 206 and Duke Schneider, rallying from a bad spill, tied Mikkelsen at 204.

Curran attributes steady work and improvement on the takeoff and inrun for the longer and longer jumps at Joppenbergh.

It's a nice comfortable feeling for the Nordic Club. In the future, all they need is good weather. Quality fields are assured.

AN ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR of orthopedic surgery made the wires the other day with the startling announcement that skiing is as safe as any other sport "if you are sensible."

The claim made by Dr. Mark R. Harwood of the State University Upstate Medical Center was based on a five-year study of skiing accidents in central New York.

Only seven of every 1,000 skiers are injured on an average day, and fewer than 40 percent of the injuries are bone fractures, the good doctor said.

Harwood urged skiers to be prudent, however. About half of those injured, he noted, had lost control or were fatigued. Many mishaps occurred just before lunch or at the end of the day.

Dr. Harwood's thesis indicated no direct relation between ski spills and excesses of hot toddy.

SKI CLUBS, like ski pants, are best when you get a perfect fit. And there are as many different kinds of clubs tailored to an individual's personality as there are brands of ski pants.

Clubs, like pants, serve basically the same end — to give a skier the chance to travel and ski with companions and often at a lower cost to each club member.

But the way to get the most out of a club and give the most in return is to become associated with the one that is styled for your kind of personality, your kind of friends, your kind of travel and skiing and entertainment.

SCHUSS NOTES:
Liz McGrath of Phoenicia placed 4th and 7th in the 2-day Eastern Junior racing program at Gore Mt. and is another area candidate for the Eastern Junior Team.

Belleaire Ski Center hosts Giant Slalom Races for Juniors 3-4 Saturday.

Bear Mountain hosts another Saturday-Sunday combination of jumping events, with Mount Beacon Ski Club's annual tournament Saturday and the Telemark Trophy tournament Sunday.

Sports boxoffice figures are padded enough as a rule but when they report 30,000 crowds at Bear Mountain, we pass.

Olympic style organization and pageantry will surround pre-teenage participants in the New York State Jaycees Junior Ski Finals Saturday and Sunday at Snow Ridge, Turin. Winners will be eligible for Jaycee Ski Nationals at a Far West ski center to be named.

Snow Ridge — 50 miles north of Utica on Route 212-D — 24 years in business — is located in the 220-inch snow accumulation belt of New York state. Just far enough away, we'd say.

WITH A DEARTH of natural snow and a plethora of machine made fluffy stuff, Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl is mid-way through its best season in history. The huge packed bases established in December have been reinforced constantly and fresh snow is being made whenever possible.

Gordon Davenport is being hailed for the excellency of the junior racing classes Saturday and Sunday noon at Highmount Ski Center. The ski school is considered the best yet in the area.

Maroon Skiers Take Triangular Meet

The first Kingston High skier to cross the finish line was 4th overall but the Maroons captured six of the first 10 places to defeat Monticello High and Highland Falls in a triangular meet Thursday at Davos Ski Center in Woodridge.

Coach Richard Schaefer's Maroons had a best-five combined clocking of 236.9 seconds, three seconds faster than runnerup Monticello. The outclassed Highland Falls squad was a distant third with a 275.0 clocking.

Glenn Sonnenschein of Monticello was first through the 17-gate slalom in 43.4 seconds. Howard Brosseau of Highland Falls was runnerup in 44.9 and Monticello's Dan Parker placed third in 45.9.

Kingston swept the next six straight places and accumulated enough points on the first five to edge Monticello for first place. The Maroon skiers came across in the following order: Bruce Reynolds, Bob Joyet, Frank Barnes, Craig Frost, Ricky Cogswell and Bill Brinnier.

The victory was the 6th in seven starts for Kingston and avenged its only loss at the hands of Monticello. Kingston's next meet is against Washingtonville at Davos next Tuesday.

The icy 17-gate slalom course was set up by Peter Martini, director of Davos Ski School, who participated in the meet as a forerunner. The race was unmarred by injuries, although Bob Joyet of Kingston narrowly escaped injury when he came through the final gate on his back. His unorthodox finish did not seem to hinder his time.

UCCC Rebounds to Crush Alleghany, 116-73

By CHRIS GEHMAN
WILKES BARRE, Pa.—Here we are — the Ulster County Community College basketball squad and I—marooned in the coal mine regions of Pennsylvania this 2 a. m. Friday, Feb. 2.

But nobody is complaining, certainly not the rebounding Senators who regained a full measure of prestige last night by crushing Alleghany College, 116-73, in a game played in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Joe Uhl, limited to 19 points in the Robert Morris debacle the night before, bounced back with a spectacular 44-point performance in 35 minutes of action.

Uhl's 31 point second half led UCCC's 77-point blitz that swept Alleghany off the floor after a reasonably close 39-23 halftime score. It was the 18th win in 20 starts for Coach Mike Perry's charges who go against Orange CC in a Mid-Hudson Conference contest Tuesday.

That Plane Trip
Before we get into the gory

details of the basketball, let us tell you about our plane trip. A happy band of Senators and I boarded a Jet Master at Pittsburgh about 11 p. m. Thursday. Excitement was high. The slightly stained UCCC escutcheon was shining brighter and it was a mood of conquest that pervaded the sleek jetliner.

The plane arrived over Newark Airport some time around 1 a. m., nobody knows for sure, then came the announcement from the flight captain. He was sorry, the airport was fogged in. We circled for about a half hour, then came a second announcement. We were being shunted back to Wilkes-Barre (of all places!) We made it moved to a 39-23 halftime lead.

UCCC went into a tight 1-2-2 press in the second half forcing Alleghany into numerous turnovers, while Uhl was running wild.

Alleghany was guilty of 43 turnovers. Ulster only 11 and the locals held a 49-31 edge in rebounds.

Ulster ran off 11 straight, then Alleghany closed to 19-16. Bill Boines and Leon Hanna ripped successive baskets and UCCC moved to a 39-23 halftime lead.

Alleghany was guilty of 43 turnovers. Ulster only 11 and the locals held a 49-31 edge in rebounds.

UCCC's poor second half against Robert Morris the night before, Coach Perry made three lineup changes. He benched Co-Captain Rod Chando, Frank Roselli and Leon Hanna and started Bill Boines, Bill Zilliox and Stan Henderson along with Uhl and Mike Derrenbacher.

Boines contributed 16 points and led with 12 rebounds in his last Ulster appearance. Academics have grounded him for the second semester. Bill Zilliox added 15.

Obviously distressed by Roselli, the new benedict, saw action for less than five minutes. Only about 200 persons saw the contest in the Carrick High school gym and gave Uhl a standing ovation when he was lifted by Coach Perry with 5 minutes left to play.

The officiating was a sharp improvement over the night before. The Alleghany Cougars now 12-5 for the season, were tough in the first half but when Coach Perry switched defensive tactics in the second half the game degenerated into a rout.

The score:

Ulster CCC (116)	Alleghany (73)

Burden Too Much for One Man

Lombardi Steps Down as Packer Coach

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, the Brooklyn-born miracle man who built football's mightiest dynasty in this small city on Green Bay, has retired to the executive suite after nine smash seasons as Packer head coach.

From now on, Lombardi, 54, will be only the general manager of the team he coached to five National Football League titles in those years. The new head coach will be Phil Bengtson, 56, the designer of the Packers' stifling defenses.

It was the first time Lombardi, absolute ruler of Green Bay football as coach and general manager, ever delegated a major share of his authority.

Sees No Interference
Bengtson was sure Lombardi would not interfere with the running of the team.

"Our relationship has been very close and there's been a very real understanding between us as long as we've been together," Bengtson said. "I realize I will be succeeding a remarkable man as coach of a team with a record probably unequalled in the history of football," Bengtson said. "I hope we will be able to continue the winning tradition of the Packers."

The one-time Minnesota star, who admitted having turned down previous head coaching offers, spoke immediately after Lombardi told Packer directors and newsmen of his decision Thursday night.

Long Deliberation
He had made up his mind, Lombardi said, "only after a great deal of thought and study."

"Because of the nature and growth of the business and the corporate structure of the Packers, I believe it is impractical for me to try to do both jobs. I feel I must relinquish one of them," he said.

Lombardi's emotion showed only momentarily during his three-minute talk. When it was over, tears were noticeable in his eyes.

The indomitable Lombardi, the only man ever to coach a team to three straight titles since the NFL adopted the playoff system in 1933, said he was flattered by the number of people who attended his news conference and dinner. "This started out as a routine press release, believe me," he said to the gathering of more than 100 persons.

Nine Winning Seasons
Lombardi, who took over a team that had won only one game in 1958 and turned it into a contender almost overnight and a champion within three years, leaves after nine straight winning seasons.

His Packer teams won 89 regular season games, lost only 29 and tied four. The Packers captured six Western Conference tities as well as five league titles and for the past two seasons have won world titles by beating the American Football League champions in the Super Bowl.

Bengtson, believed close to Lombardi in football outlook, said he planned no major departures from traditional Packer patterns.

Packer players don't expect any changes either. Bengtson indicated he would, at least for the time being, continue to run the defense. For the past nine seasons he has called all the Packer defensive signals.

SITZ-MARKS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Having survived major weather catastrophies and conflicting Eastern schedules, it is safe to say that Rosendale has "arrived" as an Eastern ski jumping center.

Even the erudite Michael Strauss of the New York Times described last weekend's Class A field at Mt. Joppenbergh as "the best of the season."

Aside from the never ending battle with the elements, the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club has had to claw and scratch for dates not in conflict with those at Bear Mountain, Salisbury and other centers.

"Right now our 70-meter hill at Joppenbergh is on a par with Bear Mountain and Salisbury," says Bill Curran with understandable pride.

"Roy Sherwood, Pete Mikkelsen all raved about the conditions there last weekend and said they would be back," he added. "When you get that kind of entry you've got it made."

An interesting sidelight on Sherwood, the veteran ex-Olympian. Until this year he resisted all blandishments from Curran, a fellow member on the Eastern Ski Jumping Committee, to come to Rosendale. When he did accept an invitation this year, he demanded the right to change his mind if hill conditions did not meet his specifications.

Joppenbergh satisfied Sherwood's demanding conditions even though the Salisbury vet wasn't too impressed with leaps of 177 and 184 feet.

Per Coucheron, the Norwegian-born Dartmouth student, was a double winner, following an earlier triumph at Bear Mountain. Pete Mikkelsen, the US Air Force sky raider from Wisconsin, hit a pair of 204s. Coucheron soared 206 and Duke Schneider, rallying from a bad spill, tied Mikkelsen at 204.

Curran attributes steady work and improvement on the takeoff and inrun for the longer and longer jumps at Joppenbergh.

It's a nice comfortable feeling for the Nordic Club. In the future, all they need is good weather. Quality fields are assured.

AN ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR of orthopedic surgery made the wires the other day with the startling announcement that skiing is as safe as any other sport "if you are sensible."

The claim made by Dr. Mark R. Harwood of the State University Upstate Medical Center was based on a five-year study of skiing accidents in central New York.

Only seven of every 1,000 skiers are injured on an average day, and fewer than 40 percent of the injuries are bone fractures, the good doctor said.

Harwood urged skiers to be prudent, however. About half of those injured, he noted, had lost control or were fatigued. Many mishaps occurred just before lunch or at the end of the day.

Dr. Harwood's thesis indicated no direct relation between ski spills and excesses of hot toddy.

SKI CLUBS, like ski pants, are best when you get a perfect fit. And there are as many different kinds of clubs tailored to an individual's personality as there are brands of ski pants.

Clubs, like pants, serve basically the same end — to give a skier the chance to travel and ski with companions and often at a lower cost to each club member.

But the way to get the most out of a club and give the most in return is to become associated with the one that is styled for your kind of personality, your kind of friends, your kind of travel and skiing and entertainment.

SCHUSS NOTES:
Liz McGrath of Phoenixia placed 4th and 7th in the 2-day Eastern Junior racing program at Gore Mt. and is another area candidate for the Eastern Junior Team.

Belleayre Ski Center hosts Giant Slalom Races for Juniors 3-4 Saturday.

Bear Mountain hosts another Saturday-Sunday combination of jumping events, with Mount Beacon Ski Club's annual tournament Saturday and the Telemark Trophy tournament Sunday.

Sports boxoffice figures are padded enough as a rule but when they report 30,000 crowds at Bear Mountain, we pass.

Olympic style organization and pageantry will surround pre-teenage participants in the New York State Jaycees Junior Ski Finals Saturday and Sunday at Snow Ridge, Turin. Winners will be eligible for Jaycee Ski Nationals at a Far West ski center to be named.

Snow Ridge — 50 miles north of Utica on Route 212-D — 24 years in business — is located in the 220-inch snow accumulation belt of New York state. Just far enough away, we'd say.

WITH A DEARTH of natural snow and a plethora of machine made fluffy stuff, Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl is mid-way through its best season in history. The huge packed bases established in December have been reinforced constantly and fresh snow is being made whenever possible.

Gordon Davenport is being hailed for the excellency of the junior racing classes Saturday and Sunday noon at Highmount Ski Center. The ski school is considered the best yet in the area.

Maroon Skiers Take Triangular Meet

The first Kingston High skier to cross the finish line was 4th overall but the Maroons captured six of the first 10 places to defeat Monticello High and Highland Falls in a triangular meet Thursday at Davos Ski Center in Woodridge.

Coach Richard Schaefer's Maroons had a best-five combined clocking of 236.9 seconds, three seconds faster than runnerup Monticello. The outclassed Highland Falls squad was a distant third with a 275.0 clocking.

Glenn Sonnenschein of Monticello was first through the 17-gate slalom in 43.4 seconds. Howard Brosseau of Highland Falls was runnerup in 44.9 and Monticello's Dan Parker placed third in 45.9.

Kingston swept the next six straight places and accumulated enough points on the first five to edge Monticello for first place. The Maroon skiers came across in the following order: Bruce Reynolds, Bob Joyet, Frank Barnes, Craig Frost, Ricky Cogswell and Bill Brinnier.

The victory was the 6th in seven starts for Kingston and avenged its only loss at the hands of Monticello. Kingston's next meet is against Washingtonville at Davos next Tuesday.

Dear Abby

Needs Time to Cool Off

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What do you make of a man who buries his wife on a Friday and asks you for a date for the following Wednesday? I accepted, thinking he needed someone to console him, but I got the surprise of my life. He acted like a sailor on shore leave after 8 months on a ship. His wife and I were very good friends and I realize that she had been sick for a year, but I can't see any excuse for the rush this man was in to make up for lost time. When he asked me out for the next night

I told him I didn't think we should be seen in public together because people might talk, so he's been parking himself over here every night telling me how lonesome he is, and how much he needs "female companionship."

Abby, I'm a widow and I am lonesome, too, but I'm not THAT lonesome. How long do you think I should wait before I let him court me? I know lots of women in this town who would be glad to have him.

ENCINO WIDOW
DEAR ABBY: The man shows a shocking lack of respect for the memory of his wife. Put him on ice for about a year. He could use some cooling off.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, very happily married and have two adorable children, but I have one big sorrow in my life. I have always been as flat-chested as a 10-year-old boy. I suppose now that I'm married it really shouldn't bother me so much, but it does. Abby, I have always felt so cheated. No one will ever know how I envied girls with voluptuous bosoms.

"I've always worn padded bras, but now I hear there are silicone "shots" available that will fill a girl out like a miracle. They say most girls who work in topless clubs get those shots regularly. What kind of doctor gives them? Please answer this in your column because my husband sometimes gets the mail before I do, and if he knew this still bothered me so much he'd have a fit."

NAMELESS IN MILWAUKEE
DEAR NAMELESS: I have been advised that silicone (for breast injections) has not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration, so to seek such shots (assuming they were available) could be taking a foolish risk. In this regard, I advise you to do nothing without first talking it over with your husband. He just may like you the way you are.

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who is so afraid she'll die of germs that she has people thinking she is off her nut. She carries a big bottle of disinfectant around in her purse to clean off the rim of a glass or cup before she will drink from it. She also cleans the silverware in this manner before using it.

Now I'm not talking about taking such precautions in a restaurant—she does this right in someone's home when she is a guest. Pretty insulting, isn't it? She is a nice lady, but people are beginning to talk about her.

My husband says to forget it, that everyone is a little peculiar about something. I would like your opinion.

GERM-FIGHTER'S RELATIVE
DEAR ABBY: If this is the only "peculiarity" the lady has, I would say she is harmless. But if I were you, I'd watch her for other symptoms.

CONFIDENTIAL: "IN A BIND" IN WATERLOO: A man who joins his wife in getting "mad" at a whole family because his wife had an argument with one of the members, shows his stupidity—not his loyalty.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Opening lead—♥ 6

One of our readers is quite bitter about today's hand. It seems that in a team match he sat West and opened the six of hearts against the diamond slam. His partner won with the ace, and since our correspondent made his king of trumps later on, they scored what should have been a nice profitable 100 points.

He felt that North and South had overbid, and we have to agree with him. South had a tough choice of bids at this second turn. Two diamonds would be an underbid, three diamonds or anything else an overbid, so South had overbid when he went to three diamonds. After that overbid, South should have contented himself with merely going to five diamonds. His four spade call suggested a slam, and while North might have bid only five diamonds, North assumed that his partner was demanding a slam if North could take the second heart lead.

In any event, the slam wasn't too bad a contract. We have bid and made many worse ones. Why was our friend bitter? It seems that the South player on his team chose the underbid of two diamonds. North might have passed but saw no reason not to raise to three diamonds.

Considering the recriminations hurled at the boss during the morning refreshment break, it's a good bet that the beverage is brewed in a coffeeplot.

Financial types see an upsurge in retail sales this year, a trend sparked, no doubt, by our frau's attendance at the January sales.

This sure is a comfy place to work. We even have a fire-reason not to raise to three diamonds.

Nothing more clearly expresses the sentiments of Harvard men in seasons of athletic rivalry than the time-honored "To hell with Yale!"

Once when Dean Briggs, Co. Harvard, and Edward Everett Hale were on their way to a game at Soldiers' Field a friend asked:

Mr. Smith (the friend)—where are you going Dean?

Dean Briggs (with a meaningful smile)—To yell with Hale.

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — They come and they go, the characters and personalities in the television commercials. And when their usefulness is over, they suddenly disappear unloved and unmourned.

Has anybody even missed Wanda the witch who created marvelous hairdos with a touch of her wand? Or that silly dove that lived in a lady's cupboard? Gone, all gone.

Obviously neither of them had fan clubs.

Sales pitches starring magic is going out of style. Just about the only example of real magic left involves that white tornado rolling up such a storm cleaning a dirty corner that the state troopers come to investigate.

Of course there is always the cartoon giant selling frozen vegetables, and now there is also an automobile commercial starring a toy-size car complete with driver which is so tiny a life-size girl picks it up and puts it down. She also establishes a roadblock by placing her compact on the pint-size highway.

There are a lot of current commercials with swiny motifs and backgrounds and there is a marked vogue for products used by the young crowd to use unusual camera effects. Most disconcerting, however, are the ones that bid for viewer attention by disturbing flashes of light followed by dark on the screen.

For a while this season—some still are around—there were commercials with shock value: The neighbor who grabs her friend's toothpaste and scornfully throws it away while producing a tube of new toothpaste of the same brand. Even Katy Winters, who has spent years patching up people's lives with her deodorant, has been busy urging people to throw away the old stuff and get some of her new good stuff.

Just ordinary folks—ordinary folks like none of us has ever seen—continue to discuss with passion and intensity the length and taste of assorted brands of cigarettes. One offbeat sales pitch stars a very rude, sullen fellow in dark glasses who appears much more interested in getting rid of a pushy girl than in smoking. There is also an amusing commercial—amusing, that is the first couple of times it is seen—suggesting the course of history might have been different had certain prominent characters like Washington and Franklin taken up smoking cigarettes.

Humor plays an important part in commercials these days although whether one warns to Fran's mouthwash advice to the lovelorn or to Madge's clever method of manicuring nails with dishwashing liquid depends, presumably, on the individual's sense of humor. One series of cigarette commercials—even takes precious air time to retell old jokes—"I feel like a ham sandwich." "You don't look like one." That, presumably, puts the viewer in a jolly receptive mood.

Generally there seem to be more commercials these days, particularly short ones. Their tone and quality seems to im-

LUNCHEON DATE — Invited to the U. N. for lunch Thursday, Jacqueline Kennedy talks with U. S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg while host Secretary General U Thant confers with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Nixon GOP Favorite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richard M. Nixon has officially opened his campaign for the White House and prominent politicians of both parties tag him the favorite to win the Republican presidential nomination.

At 55, Nixon is eight years older than when John F. Kennedy beat him by a whisker in the 1960 election. He said those years gave him the chance to reflect on the tasks and problems the nation faces "and I believe I have found some answers."

Heads for N.H.

The former vice president, who made his official announcement Thursday, headed for New Hampshire today to launch his campaign to win the March 12 primary there. His prime opponent is Michigan Gov. George Romney and polls indicate Nixon is the 3-1 choice among the Granite State voters.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said in Washington Nixon has the edge.

"Neither universally loved nor hated within his party, Nixon swims in the mainstream," Bailey said in a statement. "He is in the best position to attract all persuasions of Republicans."

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who's been mentioned as a possible GOP presidential candidate, said Nixon is pulling farther ahead of Romney.

Interviewed by the Gannett Newspapers, Reagan said unless Romney stages a comeback, "it's difficult to see how they can have a meaningful contest."

Other Reaction

As for himself, Reagan said he isn't interested in being vice president and wouldn't accept the nomination for the second spot under any circumstances.

Nixon's official plunge also brought reaction from Romney and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Romney issued a statement welcoming him into the race. And without referring directly to his recent challenge to Nixon to debate issues, he said he welcomes "the occasion in New Hampshire and later to engage in discussion with him on domestic and world problems and opportunities."

Rockefeller said Nixon's entry into the New Hampshire primary "crystallizes the race" but added he hopes and feels Romney will win that primary.

Kirk Wants Test

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk indicated he wants to test his popularity in New Hampshire before deciding whether to let his name remain on the GOP ballot there. His name was entered by State Rep. Aram Parnagian of the New Hampshire House.

"This was done without my knowledge or consent," Kirk said.

The Manchester Union Leader, biggest paper in New Hampshire, praised Kirk as a man of vigor who would make "a very good vice presidential candidate."

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, an expected third-party presidential candidate, may seek a place on Connecticut's ballot, said his attorney, Robert Alton.

Alton commented to newsmen after conferring on election laws in Hartford with James F. Daly, Connecticut's deputy secretary of state. Wallace would need 6,000 signatures on petitions in order to garner ballot space.

Call-Up Doubted; New Ship Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military officials say they don't foresee any imminent call-up of ground force reservists as the United States readies today a second bid to recover the USS Pueblo through talks with her North Korean captors.

Major Developments

These were the major developments in the ongoing Asia crisis:

—The State Department announced Thursday U.S. willingness to engage in face-to-face talks with North Korea aimed at gaining return of the Pueblo and her 83-man crew.

The action followed a broad, cast hint by North Korea that a settlement might be possible through new talks at Panmunjom, the Korean War truce site.

President Johnson said U.S. bombing of North Vietnam will continue until the enemy gives "some better sign" that a halt would not result in stepped-up terrorism and aggression against South Vietnam.

He spoke as the Communists continued widespread assaults against major South Vietnamese cities and U.S. commander Gen. William C. Westmoreland warned the enemy's "main effort" is yet to come.

Generates Speculation

The surprisingly strong Communist attacks in South Vietnam along with last week's call-up of some 14,000 air reservists in response to the Pueblo crisis—had generated Capitol Hill speculation that a major muster of reserve ground forces might be in the works.

Defense officials said last week's call-up was intended to show North Korea the United States is determined to recover the Pueblo and her crew. Any further muster of reservists, they said, is likely to depend on whether the President feels the point should be made more emphatic.

After a Capitol Hill hearing, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara denied reports the United States is reassessing the size of its troop commitment in South Vietnam in view of the Viet Cong attacks and the massing of North Vietnamese regulars in northwestern South Vietnam.

"No, we believe that the American forces there at present are adequate," said McNamara.

LBJ on the Bombing

Johnson, while awarding a Medal of Honor to a veteran pilot of U.S. air raids on North Vietnam, reiterated his position on bombing of the North.

"Until we have some better sign than these last few days ground provided that he will not step up his terrorism and aggression if we halt the bombing," said the President, "we shall continue to give our men the protection it affords."

He stressed his belief in the military value of the bombing, saying the Medal of Honor winner Air Force Maj. Merlyn H. Dethlefsen of Derby, Kan., along with a comparatively few other U.S. pilots—"each day are pinning down 500,000 to 700,000 North Vietnamese."

Word the United States was willing to discuss the Pueblo incident at Panmunjom came just eight days after the North Koreans spurned an initial U.S. plea at a Military Armistice Commission meeting there on Jan. 24—the day after the ship's capture.

Speaking of further Panmunjom talks—and against a backdrop of American setbacks in diplomatic efforts at the U.N. Security Council and elsewhere—State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said:

"The United States is prepared to deal with this matter through this channel."

And U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said at the United Nations: "We would hope for a meeting at Panmunjom, the sooner the better." Another spokesman said U.S. efforts at the United Nations will continue.

No announcement was made on timing, but it was understood

LUNCHEON DATE — Invited to the U. N. for lunch Thursday, Jacqueline Kennedy talks with U. S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg while host Secretary General U Thant confers with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Nixon GOP Favorite

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richard M. Nixon has officially opened his campaign for the White House and prominent politicians of both parties tag him the favorite to win the Republican presidential nomination.

At 55, Nixon is eight years older than when John F. Kennedy beat him by a whisker in the 1960 election. He said those years gave him the chance to reflect on the tasks and problems the nation faces "and I believe I have found some answers."

Heads for N.H.
The former vice president, who made his official announcement Thursday, headed for New Hampshire today to launch his campaign to win the March 12 primary there. His prime opponent is Michigan Gov. George Romney and polls indicate Nixon is the 3-1 choice among the Granite State voters.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said in Washington Nixon has the edge. "Neither universally loved nor hated within his party, Nixon swims in midstream," Bailey said in a statement. "He is in the best position to attract all persuasions of Republicans."

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who's been mentioned as a possible GOP presidential candidate, said Nixon is pulling farther ahead of Romney.

Interviewed by the Gannett Newspapers, Reagan said unless Romney stages a comeback, "it is difficult to see how they can have a meaningful contest."

Other Reaction
As for himself, Reagan said he isn't interested in being vice president and wouldn't accept the nomination for the second spot under any circumstances.

Nixon's official plunge also brought reaction from Romney and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Romney issued a statement welcoming him into the race. And without referring directly to his recent challenge to Nixon to debate issues, he said he welcomes "the occasion in New Hampshire and later to engage in discussion with him on domestic and world problems and opportunities."

Rockefeller said Nixon's entry into the New Hampshire primary "crystallizes the race" but added he hopes and feels Romney will win that primary.

Kirk Wants Test
Florida Gov. Claude Kirk indicated he wants to test his popularity in New Hampshire before deciding whether to let his name remain on the GOP ballot there. His name was entered by State Rep. Aram Parnagian of the New Hampshire House.

"This was done without my knowledge or consent," Kirk said.

The Manchester Union Leader, biggest paper in New Hampshire, praised Kirk as a man of vigor who would make "a very good vice presidential candidate."

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, an expected third-party presidential candidate, may seek a place on Connecticut's ballot, said his attorney, Robert Alton.

Alton commented to newsmen after conferring on election laws in Hartford with James F. Daly, Connecticut's deputy secretary of state. Wallace would need 6,000 signatures on petitions in order to garner ballot space.

After a Capitol Hill hearing, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara denied reports the United States is reassessing the size of its troop commitment in South Vietnam in view of the Viet Cong attacks and the massing of North Vietnamese regulars in northwestern South Vietnam.

"No, we believe that the American forces there at present are adequate," said McNamara.

LBJ on the Bombing
Johnson, while awarding a Medal of Honor to a veteran pilot of U.S. air raids on North Vietnam, reiterated his position on bombing of the North.

"Until we have some better sign than these last few days have provided that he will not step up his terrorism and aggression if we halt the bombing," said the President. "We shall continue to give our men the protection it affords."

He stressed his belief in the military value of the bombing, saying the Medal of Honor winner, Air Force Maj. Merlyn H. Dethlefsen of Derby, Kan., along with a comparatively few other U.S. pilots—"each day are pinning down 500,000 to 700,000 North Vietnamese."

Word the United States was willing to discuss the Pueblo incident at Panmunjom came just eight days after the North Koreans spurned an initial U.S. plea at a Military Armistice Commission meeting there on Jan. 24—the day after the ship's capture.

Speaking of further Panmunjom talks—and against a backdrop of American setbacks in diplomatic efforts at the U.N. Security Council and elsewhere—State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said: "The United States is prepared to deal with this matter through this channel."

And U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said at the United Nations: "We would hope for a meeting at Panmunjom, the sooner the better." Another spokesman said U.S. efforts at the United Nations will continue.

No announcement was made on timing, but it was understood

One of the American pilots involved, former Army Capt. Carleton W. Voltz, told Thursday of being beaten and relentlessly questioned by the North Koreans. "I hope that they don't treat the 83 crew members of the USS Pueblo like they treated less questioned by the North," said Voltz in an interview.

The chief U.S. delegate on the armistice panel, Rear Adm. John V. Smith, planned a prompt request to the North Koreans for another meeting.

The chief North Korean delegate, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook, replied last time to Smith's call for a return of the ship and men with a counter-demand for a U.S. apology and severe punishment of those committing the "criminal" act.

North Korea charges the Pueblo intruded into its territorial waters on a spy mission. Washington maintains the electronic-eavesdropping vessel was seized on the high seas.

McNamara, after questioning in private Thursday by the Senate Armed Services Committee, told newsmen. "It was an act of piracy on the high seas."

Some of the senators who questioned McNamara reported he said the best hope for return of the ship and men lay in diplomacy.

Although saying the United States is willing to talk to North Korea, administration authorities recalled it took a year to gain freedom for two U.S. helicopter pilots who strayed across the armistice line into North Korean territory.

The two American airmen were captured by the North Koreans on May 17, 1963. The Communists finally returned them—but not their helicopter—on May 16, 1964, after numerous U.S. requests through the armistice commission and a low-keyed U.S. apology to the North Koreans.

Call-Up Doubted; New Ship Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military officials say they don't foresee any imminent call-up of ground force reservists as the United States readies today a second bid to recover the USS Pueblo through talks with her North Korean captors.

Major Developments
These were the major developments in the ongoing Asia crisis:

—The State Department announced Thursday U.S. willingness to engage in face-to-face talks with North Korea aimed at gaining return of the Pueblo and her 83-man crew.

The action followed a broadcast hint by North Korea that a settlement might be possible through new talks at Panmunjom, the Korean War truce site.

President Johnson said U.S. bombing of North Vietnam will continue until the enemy gives "some better sign" that a halt would not result in stepped-up terrorism and aggression against South Vietnam.

He spoke as the Communists continued widespread assaults against major South Vietnamese cities and U.S. command Gen. William C. Westmoreland warned the enemy's "main effort" is yet to come.

Military sources at the Pentagon indicated the heat is off, at least for now, on any call-up of Army Reserve or National Guard ground units.

Generates Speculation
The surprisingly strong Communist attacks in South Vietnam—along with last week's call-up of some 14,000 air reservists in response to the Pueblo crisis—had generated Capitol Hill speculation that a major muster of reserve ground forces might be in the works.

Defense officials said last week's call-up was intended to show North Korea the United States is determined to recover the Pueblo and her crew. Any further muster of reservists, they said, is likely to depend on whether the President feels the point should be made more emphatic.

After a Capitol Hill hearing, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara denied reports the United States is reassessing the size of its troop commitment in South Vietnam in view of the Viet Cong attacks and the massing of North Vietnamese regulars in northwestern South Vietnam.

"No, we believe that the American forces there at present are adequate," said McNamara.
